SCHOOL HEARING PACKED . . .

Terry Defends Reorganization

By ODELL HANSON
The Associated Press

The verbal battle over mandatory school reorganization in Nebraska was fought before the Legislature's Education Wednesday — and before galleries packed with spectators.

Estimates on the number of Nebraskans who rimmed the legislative chamber and jammed its doorways or listened to loud speakers in the Capitol rotunda, ranged from 800 to 1,000. Many were rural Nebraskans represented by the Nebraska School Improvement Association (NSIA).

Wearied by five straight hours of testimony taking, the committee adjourned without taking action on the volatile LB1342 and two companion measures growning out of Little Hoover Commission studies.

Next Week

Sen. Lester Harsh of McCook, committee chairman, said no judgments are expected before next week.

LB1342 requires that by July 1, 1973, all territory in Nebraska must be part of a school district offering instruction from kindergarten through 12th grade. Created would be one class of school district as opposed to the present six classes. Each school district would be required to have at least 1,400 students or embrace at least 550 square miles. The State School Reorganization Committee would have veto power over reorganization plans developed.

S. H. Brauer Jr., NSIA secretary, and Dr. Allen Burkhardt of Norfolk, chairman of the State Board of Education, were joined by farm organization representatives and others in attacking the reorganization bill.

Brauer termed LB1342 as "one of the most ill-conceived bills" ever introduced in the Legislature.

New Issue

In an impassioned windup defense of the measures, Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter injected a new issue by proposing an amendment under which Class I (grade school only) districts would be retained in present form but all regulations on them would be dropped as to qualifications of teachers, curricula and other factors.

Carpenter charged Brauer and the NSIA with obstructionism and said Brauer has had more to do with the impending ouster of Dr. Floyd Miller by the State Board of Education than anybody on the state board, which reportedly will do the firing at a meeting Friday.

Carpenter also announced he will seek to introduce in the Legislature Thursday a bill proposing a constitutional amendment to abolish the State Board of Education.

Challenged

And he challenged the NSIA to come to his 48th Legislative District and seek to defeat him for re-election next year.

"If I win, you ought to get a new secretary (to replace Brauer)," he said.

Carpenter's proposal to remove all regulation from Class I districts has been known in the past as the "mule skinner" proposal, inasmuch as most anybody, mule skinner included, could qualify as a school teacher in such a district.

Warning

The Scottsbluff senator warned NSIA interests that in the 1971 rural Nebraska will probably lose four more state senators under the one-man, one-vote principle, "and you're not going to stop this."

The representation of Omaha and Lincoln will climb from 19 to 23 senators, he advised.

"You're running out of time," he said. "You'd better compromise. You'd better be realistic."

Reduces ESU's

One of the companion bills heard, LB1341, reduces from 19 to 13 the number of Educational Service Units (ESU'S) in the state. All of the state except Omaha and Lincoln districts would be part of the ESU's. Counties which have voted themselves out of the ESU's would be reinstated in the realigned units, and the withdrawals option would be dropped.

The third bill, LB1339, would eliminate county superintendents in counties which are part of ESU's.

Brauer, opposing the bills, said LB1341 and LB1339 are "inseparable" from the reorganization bill, LB1342. In concert they are designed "to restructure education in this state."

Attack

"This is a well-developed attack on the ability of parents and school boards to operate the schools of the state," he said.

He proposed an interim study of the role of county superintendents.

. . . NIXON CUTS BUDGET

From Press Reports

Washington — The Nixon administration has decided to close at least 57 Job Corps centers in 30 states as part of a planned $100 million cut in the antipoverty program budget, it was learned Wednesday.

The Labor Department planned to announce the closings Friday.

The bulk of the centers to be closed are rural or conservation centers, but eight are located in cities. Those urban centers are two men's projects, one in Parks, Calif., and the other in Kilmer, N.J., and six women's centers in Clinton, Iowa; Marquette, Mich.; St. Louis; Omaha, Neb.; Cleveland and Huntington, W.Va.

Those closings, as well as 49 rural centers that will be abandoned, were approved at the White House Tuesday.

All the closings would be between now and July 1 when the new fiscal year begins and new money authorizations are required to continue the Office of Economic Opportunity's programs.

As word of the planned closings spread through the Capitol, two of OEO's staunchest defenders criticized the administration's action.

Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., whose House Education and Labor Committee is conducting hearings on a new antipoverty program, said the action means "we are throwing thousands of boys and girls to the dogs."

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., whose subcommittee will start general hearings on a poverty program early in May, said in a letter to Nixon Wednesday that the closings "would simply add to the disillusionment within the poverty areas of America."

Congressional committees were to open hearings on the Job Corps situation April 18 and April 21 but the administration's action apparently would make those hearings academic. Nelson asked President Nixon Wednesday to hold off on drastic cuts until Congress has a chance to evaluate the Job Corps program.

The slash would close 40% of the Job Corps' urban centers and 60% of the conservation camps. In all there are 109 centers operating.

Purposes of the closings is to end what is considered by the Nixon administration "inefficiency and deficiency" in the programs. When the troubles are, in the administration view, "corrected" the 35,000-youth program will operate at a level of 20,000-25,000 youths, it was reported.

Flood Waters Press At Dikes

By United Press International

Thousands of Midwesterners filled sandbags Wednesday to hold back the flood waters lapping at levees in scores of riverside communities. More than 1,800 persons were driven from their homes by the rising water.

Torrential rain fell across the lower Midwest, creating a flash flood menace. Southeast Kansas had up to seven inches of rain.

President Nixon sent George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, to inspect Midwest flood preparations.

Dikes generally were holding against swollen streams and most authorities were predicting less damage than that caused by the floods of 1965.

But 786 persons were homeless in Minnesota and at least 320 were homeless in Iowa. South Dakota had 150 homeless early in the day and during the evening they were joined by 600 of the 800 residents of North Sioux City, S.D.

Into School Gym

Most of the 230 residents of Trent, S.D., moved out — many of them to a school gymnasium. The American Red Cross served three meals a day to about 200 refugees at Cherokee, Iowa.

A meat-packing firm made 15 railroad cars — parked on a siding — available to Cherokee residents for furniture storage.

The Big Sioux River surprised officials of Watertown, S.D., backing up from the south and causing widespread flooding. Watertown residents had braced to fight floodwaters from the north.

Waves Eat At Dike

Strong northwest winds whipped up waves on the Big Sioux which ate away at an earthen dike protecting the west end of Akron, Iowa.

Sandbag crews labored to bolster the dike and fill "boils" — weak spots — as they developed. They said if the dike gave way, the entire west end of the city's business district and a residential area could be flooded.

The mayor of North Sioux City, S.D., in the extreme southeastern tip of the state, urged that about 500 persons move out in preparation for expected heavy flooding.

Cherokee, in northwest Iowa, was in its seventh day of flooding. The rampaging Little Sioux River resumed its rise there after holding steady for 12 hours.

Censure Motion On Ed Board Planned

State Sen. Don Elrod of Grand Island said Wednesday he will introduce a resolution in the Legislature calling for a vote of "no confidence" in the State Board of Education.

"Basically, I'm attempting to let it be known to the majority of the State Board of Education that I am tired of their anti-education attitude," he said.

"I feel it's time for the Legislature to take a stand and enter the picture because of recent developments and because of what the board is attempting to do.

"There is so much they can do for the welfare of the state and all they want to do is dicker for power," he said. "It's time for them to quit playing politics."

Elrod said he hoped to have the resolution ready to present to the Legislature Thursday, but that he wanted to consult with several others before drawing it up.

The board has been a beehive of controversy in recent months.

The controversy reached new heights Tuesday with disclosure of a letter purportedly from Board Member John Londay of Omaha to Board Member John Wagoner of Grand Island, which indicated the board would fire State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller at its meeting Friday.

The letter was made public by Dr. Miller himself.

Reached for comment Wednesday on the letter reportedly written him by Londay, Wagoner said the letter was private correspondence and "apparent disloyalty" was shown when Miller made its contents public.

Wagoner said he had not seen the letter, but was not questioning its existence.

Should Question

"But I do question, or perhaps Mr. Miller should question, exactly why should such a communication fall so easily into his hands.

"Why, if as the commissioner claims, there is a move to replace him, would any member let him see a letter discussing the move?"

However, when asked Wednesday if the state board would fire Miller as the letter indicated, Board President Allen Burkhardt of Norfolk said the body will "probably" decide whether to fire Miller in its meeting Friday in Omaha. Burkhardt said the meeting would probably be closed.

"In view of what he did, the matter will have to come up," Burkhardt said. "He's forced the issue so something will have to be decided."

'Unethical'

He said Miller's release of the letter was "completely unethical."

But two members of the state board Wednesday defended Miller's release of the letter.

Board Members Frank Landis of Lincoln and Robert Simmons of Scottsbluff said they support Miller's move.

'His Duty'

"When the commissioner legally receives a letter indicating secret meetings of some of the board . . . it is not only ethical but is his duty in the public interest to release it," Landis said.

And, in response to charges that the release was unethical, Miller said: "The contents of the letter were so incredible that my reaction was it had to be released in terms of the public interest."

Board Member Norman Otto of Millard said it would be "a tragedy for the educational program of the state of Nebraska if Dr. Miller is removed from office."

'Evening Gown' Fools First Lady

Washington (AP)—Pat Nixon ruled out pants suits for herself Wednesday at her first fashion show as First Lady.

In a show dominated by miniskirts and pants suits, Mrs. Nixon chose as her favorite "a long floating evening gown with a little V-neck and little sleeves."

It turned out to be a layered tricot negligee.

Omaha: No Comment

Omaha (UPI) — Officials at the Women's Job Corps center in Omaha Wednesday had no comment immediately upon learning that the center in Omaha would be one of 57 centers in 30 states to be shut down.

An official at the Women's Job Corps center at Clinton, Iowa, said Wednesday night he was "very surprised" that Clinton was one of 57 centers slated to be closed.

John Bengough of the Clinton center said he heard "rumors last week that some conservation centers, and possibly urban centers, might be closed. "I didn't imagine Clinton would be one of them."

Advertising Sales Tax Sponsors Urge Broadening Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Two sponsors of the proposal to apply the sales tax to advertising Wednesday urged the Legislature's Revenue Committee to broaden the measure to extend the tax to a host of personal and special services.

Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, chairman of the committee, proposed extension of the sales tax to include such services as attorney, accountant and architect fees investment counseling, bank service charges, parking fees and storage warehouse and locker services.

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln urged inclusion of barber or beauty shop services, dry cleaning, laundering, fur storage, interior decorating, pressing, dyeing, furniture, rug or upholstery cleaning, and dances chool or studio services.

Includes Dues

Burbach's amendment also includes dues in excess of $25 a year for membership in any golf club, country club, lodge, or any fraternal or social organization, along with employment agency services, sign painting and any Turkish bath, massage or reducing salon services.

The bill, LB191, introduced by the Revenue Committee and signed by five of its eight members, was held for later consideration.

Representatives of the advertising and communications media led opposition to the bill.

Burbach said the proposal would raise at least $2 million a year without amendments. If it were broadened, as proposed, he said, it could raise $6 million to $8 million a year, or more.

Increase Or Broaden

The question before the committee, Burbach said, is whether to increase the 2% sales tax rate or broaden the sales tax base.

Opposition witnesses said the proposed tax on advertising would hamper Nebraska's economic health by reducing advertising which, in turn, would cut retail sales.

Nebraska advertisers and retailers would be placed at a competitive disadvantage with other states, the committee was told.

"It would have a disastrous effect on the present and future economic and social development of the state," Lincoln advertising man Warren M. Swanson said.

The tax would "slow the wheels of commerce," and eventually reduce the revenue now collected on retail sales, he said.

An Omaha Advertising Club survey indicated that the proposed tax would raise only about $1.2 million a year at a 2% rate, Swanson said, but adversely affect retail sales, employment and payrolls in the state.

Force Some Out

The tax would drive national manufacturers away from advertising in the Nebraska market and send home-based companies and industries into advertising agencies outside of the state, Swanson said.

Joining in opposition were spokesmen for the Nebraska Broadcasters Association, the Nebraska Press Association, the Lincoln Food Retailers Association and Mail Advertising Company of Lincoln.

The latter company might be forced to move its Lincoln operation, which employs 600 persons, out of the state for competitive reasons, the committee was told.

Competitive factors would also damage local radio and television outlets, Paul Jensen of Lincoln said.

Also Held

Also held for later consideration was LB1072, which would exempt from the sales tax subscriptions to magazines and journals.

The bill would remove the competitive disadvantage which the Nebraska Farmer said it suffers from payment of a sales tax amounting to about $3,000 a year.

Its competition, in the form of newspapers and other trade journals and magazines, pays no saes ta x.Se .Roln magazines, pays no sales tax, Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln said.

Newspapers are exempt, and it is impossible to collect a sales tax on out-of-state subscriptions, he said.

Food Stamp Program Stepped Up

Washington (UPI) — The government is stepping up its food stamp program to cover 50,000 more needy people in 32 counties and cities in nine states, it was announced Wednesday.

Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin said distribution of the stamps would begin "as promptly as possible" in the 32 areas, none of which were previously eligible for federal food aid.

As a result of this action, agriculture officials said, the food stamp program will be helping to feed more than three million poor people in 43 states and the District of Columbia. An additional 3.5 million people in other localities are receiving food commodities from the Agriculture Department.

The latest food stamp areas were located in California, Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, New Jersey, Montana, North Carolina, South Dakota and Virginia.

The four Nebraska counties added Wednesday to those eligible for food stamps are Cass, Dawes, Hamilton and Perkins.

France Affirms Loyalty To Atlantic Alliance

(C) New York Times News Service

Washington — Foreign Minister Michel Debre affirmed France's loyalty to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and indicated that differences with the United States over Western Europe's future did not preclude extended cooperation on other matters. Debre is in Washington to attend the ministerial meeting of NAIO opening Thursday. (Another story on Page 8.)

Russia Says NATO Dangerous

Moscow — The Soviet Union marked the 20th anniversary of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization by calling it the main danger to world peace. A long, harshly worded government statement accused NATO of being solely responsible for the cold war and of "inspiring counterrevolutionary coup attempts" against Communist nations.

3 Greek Rights Restored

Athens — Premier George Papadopoulos of Greece restored by decree three basic constitutional rights suspended by his military regime — the inviolability of the home, the right of association and the right of assembly. The timing of the announcement was seen as a move to forestall criticism of the regime at the NATO ministerial meeting.

Hanoi Has Problems

Washington — The end of American bombing of North Vietnam has left the Hanoi regime beset by intensified problems of public apathy, flagging Communist discipline, corruption and poor morale among the populace, Western diplomats report. For example, draft-dodging among youth has gotten worse in recent months and there have been reports of hoarding by farmers. (More on Page 39.)

Alexander Blasts Administration

Washington — Clifford L. Alexander Jr. resigned as chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and cited the reason as "a crippling lack of administration support." (More on Page 2.)

Consumer Activist Named

Washington — President Nixon appointed an avowed consumer activist as his full-time special assistant for consumer affairs. She is Mrs. Virginia Knauer of Philadelphia, director of the Pennsylvania State Bureau of Consumer Protection.

Mystery Cleared Up

Washington — The mystery of why Edward C. Nixon, the President's brother, turned down a $36,000-a-year federal job on Alaskan development cleared up. The appointment might have run afoul of a law passed in 1967 saying that a public official, including the president, may not appoint to an agency "any individual who is the relative of a public official."

Anti-War Soldier 'Informer'

Columbia, S.C. — The Army said one of the leaders of a group of militantly anti-war enlisted men at Ft. Jackson, S.C., who face a series of charges for alleged agitation against the Vietnam war, is an Army undercover agent. All charges against the soldier have been dropped.

Six Oil Firms Sue

Washington — Six independent oil companies sued the federal government for $230 million for insisting on "absolute liability" for any pollution from leaks in the Santa Barbara Channel. They said the liability proviso made exploitation of the field "economically and practically impossible."

ABM Foes Have New Target

Washington — The Senate antiballistic missile opponents are attacking a new target — a proposal to give an aerospace manufacturer a $62 million subsidy to produce a supersonic fighter for other countries.

Harvard Deans Ejected

Cambridge — Three hundred militant students seized the main administration building at Harvard University and forcibly ejected eight deans from their offices and chained up the doors. The main issue is the complete removal of the Reserve Officers Training Corps from the campus. (More on Page 2.)

Five Mafia Leaders Questioned In Miami

Mami, Fla. (AP) — A federal grand jury questioned five Mafia leaders Wednesday for about three hours on recent meetings in the Miami area of top-rank crime syndicate bosses.

Federal officials have said the meetings were called to pick a successor to the late Vito Genovese.

William Earl, chief of the Justice Department's organized crime unit here, and Peter Kosti, assistant U.S. attorney, would not comment on what Meyer Lansky, Vincent Alo, Anthony J. Accardo, Tony Ricci and Dominick Angelini said.

Take The Fifth

Nor would the mobsters comment on what they told the grand jury, but a source close to Ricci and Accardo said they took the Fifth Amendment, which protects individuals from self-incrimination.

Newsmen asked Alo how it went, and he replied, "A little rough."

Each of the five appeared before the grand jury. Also testifying were doorman Elwood Brown and registrations clerk Joseph Ehrlick of the Thunderbird Motel in nearby Hollywood.

Federal investigators indicated some of the mob leaders had been staying at the Thunderbird and had been meeting at the Diplomat Hotel, a short distance up the beach.

The grand jury appearance was interrupted at one point by a shouting match between Kosti and Arthur Stark, Alo's attorney. It occurred just after Alo entered the grand jury room with a lengthy prepared statement.

Kosti and Stark argued loudly in an anteroom before the attorney stalked into the hallway where Lansky waited to testify.

"Stark, I want to see you!" Kosti shouted. "You are going to go before a judge for that kind of nonsense."

"I'm perfectly willing to go before a judge," Stark said. "Let's go right now."

Go Out Of Earshot

Kosti and Stark noticed newsmen observing their quarrel and they walked down the hall where they could no longer be heard to conclude the argument.

Alo emerged from the jury room after about 20 minutes and conferred with Stark. The attorney gave Alo a slip of torn paper with something written on it. Alo, clad in gray plaid suit and polo shirt of the same color, re-entered the jury room and left for good about two minutes later.

Alo, known as "Jimmy Blue Eyes," is said to be a member of Genovese's Mafia family.

Lansky is considered the syndicate financial brain. He has been reported in ill health, but told an inquiring newsmen: "I'm all right — of course I don't want to take the drama out of your story."

Accardo, known as "Joe Batters," rose from chauffeuring crime chief Al Capone to a reputation as one of Chicago's wealthiest hoods.

Ricci, nicknamed "The King," has a longtime reputation of underworld dealings in bootlegging, gambling and prostitution.

Angelini was identified by Max Lurie, attorney who represented Accardo and Ricci, as a Mafia figure under federal indictment in Chicago for interstate transportation of gambling equipment.

300 Students Eject Deans At Harvard

Cambridge, Mass. (AP) — About 300 Harvard students took over University Hall, Harvard's main administration building, Wednesday, forcibly ejecting several deans, and demanding ending of the Reserve Officer Training Corps program.

Doors to the building were locked from the inside by chains the students pushed through door handles.

Hundreds of students not taking part in the seizure milled around in Harvard Yard, hooting at the demonstrators. When the invaders unfurled the flag of Students for a Democratic Society from a window, students outside burned an effigy labeled "SDS".

Carried Out

Dean of Freshmen Burrog was picked up and carried out of his office and the building. Three other deans were forcibly ejected from the building, which is one of the older structures in the Yard. The John Harvard statue is just outside the building.

B52s Concentrate Blows

Saigon (AP) — With ground warfare in a lull, U.S. B52 Stratofortresses took over the burden of attack Wednesday, concentrating their blows on suspected enemy bases near Cambodia northwest of Saigon.

U.S. military analysts said that after 6½ weeks of offensive, the enemy had pulled back most of the North Vietnamese 1st and 7th Divisions to the Cambodian border for replacements and supplies after heavy losses.

The Viet Cong 9th Division, made up of about 80% North Vietnamese, was holding fast along an important infiltration in lower Tay Ninh province 52 miles northwest of Saigon.

1,000 Tons Of Bombs

Five waves of the eight-engine, high-flying B52s, totaling 30 planes, unleashed about 1,000 tons of bombs on suspected troop concentrations, base camps, bunker complexes and supply depots of the three divisions.

The strikes ranged from the Viet Cong's 9th Division area to upper Tay Ninh province, 69 miles northwest of Saigon, in an area only 17 miles long. Some strikes were two miles from Cambodia.

The Stratofortresses fly so high they cannot be heard, and their bomb loads explode before the enemy knows they are overhead.

Head Start Gets New Home

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon created a new home for the popular Head Start preschool program Wednesday and said it would become the focus of his administration's determination to fight poverty before it marks the children of the poor.

The new Office of Child Development under Secretary Robert H. Finch of health, education and welfare would take over Head Start from the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), which created it early in the war on poverty.

Nixon announced his intention to make the shift Feb. 19, and called the decision to give Head Start the status of a new office the "second step" of his intention to emphasize the educational, health and social needs of children under the age of 5.

Nixon's decision was expected to produce a standoff between professional educators in the Office of Education and Child Welfare experts in the Children's Bureau, both ongoing HEW bureaus which had been competing to get control of Head Start.

But congressional supporters of the present OEO program, notably Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, probably will not be mollified by creation of a special place for Head Start in Finch's department.

The transfer is to take place on or before July 1, and does not require congressional approval — although it could be blocked if Perkins succeeds.

Funds for the training program for underprivileged preschool children — $328 million in the 1968-69 fiscal year and $338 million in the following 12 months — were expected to remain about the same.

Finch, who held a White House news conference after Nixon issued his statement, promised that Head Start's integrity would be maintained and that over-all educational benefits for all children would be expanded.

Asked about Perkins' opposition to the shift, he said Perkins was "following party lines" in the hope that eventually, "those terrible old Republicans will go away."

Alexander Quits Anti-Bias Job, Fires Blast At Administration

Washington (AP) — Quitting before he was fired, Clifford L. Alexander Jr. resigned as chief of the government's campaign against job discrimination Wednesday with a blast at the Nixon administration.

Alexander, a 35-year-old Harvard-educated Negro and a Democrat, said the conclusion is inescapable that vigorous efforts to enforce the law on employment discrimination "are not among the goals of this administration."

"It is my sincere hope," Alexander said in a letter to President Nixon, "that you will publicly dispel these ever increasing doubts."

Ziegler Comments

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, commented, "The President has, I think, made it very clear the administration intends to enforce the law in this area." He said the record will bear him out and added that "the entire direction and thrust of this administration has been positive" in the field of equal opportunities.

A justice department spokesman labeled Alexander's charges "without foundation" and added: "The Department of Justice record in civil rights speaks for itself. Since the change of administrations, suits have been brought to attack discrimination in housing, employment, schools, public accommodations and individual rights."

Alexander said his resignation as chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission will take effect May 1, unless Nixon wants it sooner. He said he intends to fill out the remaining three years of his term on the commission, created by the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Tangled With Ev

Alexander tangled with Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., last month when Dirksen told him during a Senate hearing that "harassment" of private business men must stop "or I am going to the highest authority in this government and get somebody fired."

The White House said the next morning that Alexander would be replaced.

Nixon's choice for chairman is William H. Brown, a Philadelphia Negro who was nominated for membership on the five-member board last year by President Lyndon B. Johnson. Congress adjourned without acting on Brown's nomination, but Nixon resubmitted it after he took office.

There had been published reports, even before Alexander's encounter with Dirksen, that Nixon would name Brown to the chairmanship.

Weaver Chosen Head Of Agricultural Careers

Edward M. Weaver, Jr. of Lincoln was elected president of Agricultural Careers, Inc., at the first annual meeting of the organization here Wednesday.

Lewis G. Jacobs of Dakota City was named vice president, and Don Shriner of Lincoln was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Succeeds Frolik

President Weaver, president of Weaver Potato Chip Company of Lincoln, succeeds Dean E. F. Frolik of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Home Economics, a key figure in the initiation of NAYI and the subsequent creation of Ag Careers Inc. as a parent organization to engage in this and other agricultural career programs.

Vice president Jacobs, vice president, consumer development, Iowa Beef Packers, succeeds the late State Senator Stanley A. Matzke Sr.

During the all-day meeting, 10 nationally-known business and industrial leaders and five deans of agriculture were named directors of Ag Careers, Inc. This group then elected principal officers from within its own membership, with the exception of secretary-treasurer Shriner.

Named as directors to represent business and industry:

M. A. Brown, vice president, ITT Rayonier, Inc., New York, N.Y.;

G. E. Danch, director of community ralations, Campbell Soup Company, Camden N.J.;

Lewis Jacobs, vice president, consumer development, Iowa Beef Packers, Dakota City;

Agricultural Careers, Inc., is a non-profit corporation designed to unite industry and colleges of agriculture around the country in a common effort to attract outstanding American youth for leadership roles in today's modern, complex agriculture.

The organization is an outgrowth of the successful National Agricultural Youth Institute (NAYI), first held in Nebraska in 1967 as a Nebraska centennial year event. NAYI was repeated in 1968, and plans are well along for the 1969 session in August.

Dean Frolik, in his president's report, revealed that Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has accepted the position as honorary chairman of the National Agricultural Youth Institute, to be effective as long as he serves as secretary.

To take a positive step toward realizing the goal of NAYI, and attempt to mesh more precisely the demands of industry for certain skills and the training given youth in agricultural colleges, Ag Careers, Inc. was formed.

40 Countries Sending Representatives To Kearney

Kearney (UPI) — Representatives from 40 foreign countries have indicated they will attend the sixth annual Midwest Conference on World Affairs at Kearney State College April 22 and 23.

This year's delegation includes several ambassadors and four men who have attended previous conferences.

Speakers at the general sessions which are open to high school and college students as well as the general public include John Scali, State Department correspondent for ABC television; a representative from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA); Drs. J. Van Der Walk, director of NATO from The Netherlands; and Alexander Gabriel, chief of the United Nations Bureau of Trans-Radio News Agency.

Opening session for Tuesday will be 9 a.m., while Wednesday's events will start at 8:30 a.m.

2-State Boundary Case Reaches Federal Court

Omaha (UPI) — The long-awaited lawsuit over the Iowa-Nebraska boundary reached Federal Court here Wednesday, with Nebraska claiming Iowa has "subverted the intent" of a border compact and Iowa replying it was in its "sovereign rights."

The suit, filed by Nebraska after authorization from its Legislature, was being heard by Federal District Judge Joseph P. Willson of Pittsburgh, Pa., a special master named by the U.S. Supreme Court. He will recommend a decision to the high court.

Several weeks of testimony were expected, though Judge Willson indicated he was not sure he should be hearing the case at all. He said the case would not determine the disputes of individual private property owners, but would concern only the establishment of the boundary line, a line which has changed through the years by the meandering of the Missouri River.

Iowa has claimed some land on the Nebraska side of the Missouri and Nebraska has likewise claimed title to land on the Iowa side. The two states in 1943 signed a compact which established the middle of the river as the boundary.

The suit was sought by Nebraska after Iowa, in 1966, claimed 30 separate sections of land which were located in Dakota, Thurston, Burt, Washington, Sarpy and Otoe Counties in the Cornhusker state. Iowa sought to develop them as migratory waterfowl refuges and for recreational use.

Howard Moldenhauer, an attorney representing Nebraska, opened oral arguments Wednesday morning. He said the Hawkeye state had committed itself to honor the 1943 compact, "but has subverted the intent of the compact."

He said there was no attempt to set a definite boundary line when the compact was made because there was an understanding between the states that each would recognize the other's boundaries.

Instead, he said, it has become a burden on the individual landowner to prove ownership of his property to one state or the other. Moldenhauer described it as an "impossible condition" for the landowner.

"It's their (Iowa's) conduct we're complaining about."

Attorney Manning Walker, representing Iowa, replied the only issue in the case is if Iowa violated the compact.

USDA Planning For 5,000 People

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Agricultural leaders, farmers and businessmen planning to attend Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M Hardin's "listening conference" here Saturday may be participating in the largest one-day agricultural meeting ever held by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Original plans for an attendance of 1,000 persons have been revamped to accommodate a crowd of 5,000 or more should the intense interest in the meeting bring an overflow crowd to the NU campus.

In Washington a formal title has been given to the meeting — the Secretary's Hearing on Agriculture and the Rural Economy (SHARE).

The USDA says the SHARE meeting is where interested persons can make their views known, orally or in writing, to the largest contingent of top-level Department of Agriculture officials ever to leave the nation's capital for a Midwest agricultural meeting.

Why so much interest in the meeting?

Farmers and agricultural leaders say the increasing interest rates, high cost of production and still dragging farm prices in a booming economy are threatening the existence of an agricultural plant that has long been termed the world's most efficient.

"It may be the very existence of our economy that will be discussed in this meeting and it might be time to show the nation that agriculture is desperate and must have more than lip service from our national leaders," said one spokesman planning his delivery for the Saturday meeting.

Plans to develop a nationwide TV program at the conference and national news coverage seemed likely as plans were being completed for the meeting.

Some neighboring state communities plan to have 100 or more persons from individual counties in attendance and all-night trips to Lincoln are being planned in many communities throughout the Midwest, it was learned from reliable sources Wednesday.

Federal-Dominated Health Care Plan Fear Discounted

Kansas City (AP) — A keynote speaker at the six-state Mid-West Hospital Association convention discounted fear of a government-dominated health care system in the United States.

Donald M. Rosenberger, director of United Hospitals of Newark, N.J., predicted instead "a co-operative system based on joint venture" of health facilities, physicians and government.

The three-day convention opened Wednesday with approximately 7,500 delegates expected. The association represents hospital and nursing home administrators and other health field professions from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Nebraska and Wyoming.

'New Autonomy'

Rosenberger described what he called a "new autonomy" in management that will be shaped by physicians and health care facilities, with government help where needed.

How well the health institutions develop various levels of management will determine how far the federal government is likely to go into the field, Rosenberger said.

The government, he said, "must demonstrate its own accountability on the part of those who make decisions affecting the level of achievement within our institutions."

Sgt. Rieken Dies In War

Washington (AP) — The Defense Department Wednesday reported the death of Sgt. Larry R. Rieken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton D. Rieken of rural Sterling, Neb., in action in the Vietnam War.

Individualized Study Center For Murtaugh

Omaha (AP) — Terry Murtaugh, a figure in a North High School incident that led to the walkout and suspension of 130 students March 26, will enroll in the Omaha School District's individualized study center.

Dr. Rene Hlavac, director of guidance for the Omaha public school system, said Murtaugh could complete his high school courses at the center and get a diploma in June.

Murtaugh was expelled at North High for fighting with another youth, Karl Webb. The latter was suspended and now is back at North, Principal Harold Reeves said.

Hlavac said Murtaugh, an all-state football player who has signed a letter of intent to enter the University of Nebraska, needs only two high school credits to be graduated.

Lloyd Bucher Likely To Visit Boys Town Soon

Boys Town (UPI) — Pueblo Commander Lloyd Bucher has indicated he will visit his old home here approximately April 24, Msgr. Nicholas H. Wegner said Wednesday.

Father Wegner, director of this home for boys west of Omaha, said he received the word in a phone call from Bucher.

He said a reception and dinner are planned. Bucher's wife and their two sons are expected to accompany the commander on the trip.

KUON-TV Plans To Videotape Hardin's Meet

University of Nebraska Television was awarded a $5,000 grant to produce a special agricultural program for nationwide broadcast by educational television stations.

Under terms of the grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, KUON-TV, Ch. 12, will videotape Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin's first regional "listening conference," scheduled Saturday at the University of Nebraska Student Union.

The hour-long program which KUON-TV will produce is tentatively scheduled for nationwide broadcast on Monday, April 28, at 7 p.m. CDT.

Farm organizations, commodity groups and farmers from nine midwestern states have been invited to attend the conference. The states include: Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri.

League Had Not Endorsed Change In Council Salary

The League of Women Voters had not endorsed the charter amendment raising city councilmen's salaries which was defeated by voters Tuesday.

The Star's report that the amendment had the support of the League was incorrect.

Erikson Chosen

Hastings (AP)—Stan Erikson, advertising manager of a regional grocery chain, was named president of the Hastings Junior Chamber of Commerce at the group's annual election.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

In general, voters in May will have a pretty good choice of candidates as a result of Tuesday's nominating process. It is now important in the month that remains before the general election runoff that candidates make themselves known on some of the issues and philosophies that are important to the future welfare of Lincoln.

A disappointing total of 20,271 voters turned out Tuesday to settle three races and one issue. In the race for City Council, an historic point was reached with the nomination of two Negro candidates, one of them being the top vote-getter.

If memory serves us right, this has never happened before and probably could not have happened until this year. Both of these candidates, Harry (Pete) Peterson and Mrs. Essie Burden, carry qualifications that recommend them for the job but their nomination marks a milestone in Lincoln race relations.

Also significant is the fact that not a single nominee is opposed to urban renewal or a minimum standards housing ordinance. Among the top six, it is interesting to note that pre-election statements indicate strong support of zoning based on its ability to attract new business and industry.

Peculiarly, this may or may not be the purpose of zoning, depending upon one's total outlook on the subject. Zoning should attract business and industry only indirectly by making the city a better place in which to do business and to live.

But zoning should not be a tool of business or industry or a practice that serves the ends of business and industry to the exclusion of other interests. Actually, good zoning is a composite of all interests, both public and private, but it is doubtful that any of the candidates have exactly that idea of the thing.

This is an area of concern in which it is difficult to make oneself understood but it is hoped that some clarification as among the candidates will be forthcoming in the next few weeks.

Among the weakest of the six candidates in response to League of Women Voters and Sunday Journal and Star questions prior to the election was Merle M. Hale who ran third with 5,214 votes. Some questions he failed to answer and the answers he did give were so vague as to be almost meaningless.

Mrs. Burden was weak in the area of utility operations and city finances. Strongest across the board were Peterson, Dick H. Hartsock, Harry Simon and W. Richard Baker. Of the latter four, Peterson, Simon and Baker expressed the more enlightened and positive attitudes.

All of this, of course, could change substantially before the general election. With 33 candidates running, it was a difficult job for any of them to make himself known and a tough job for the voters to make a choice.

Peterson, for instance, would make a big mistake if he sat back now on the strength of his primary showing. Thousands of votes in the primary went to candidates other than those nominated

This means there are many votes that will change in the general election. Added to the total in the general election will be perhaps another 10,000 to 15,000 voters who did not even go to the polls Tuesday.

Thus, the order of things in the primary is far from a sure sign of how things will go in the general election in May.

In the races for Board of Education and Airport Authority, issues did not dominate the contests and probably will not do so in the general election. In these races, it will be largely a matter of who appears to be the best qualified to provide good leadership.

Certainly, none of the races has produced a candidate whose general attitudes and philosophy are out of line with the thinking of the average voter.

May will not bring any revolution in any of the three areas of government regardless of the election outcome but the distinctions and differences that exist between candidates will be important to know.

The Rite Of Spring

The Nays Have It

The considerable margin by which the city charter amendment to raise City Council salaries was defeated comes as no great surprise, given the fact that Lincoln's leadership, either by design or default, soft-pedaled the issue.

The amendment would have provided a salary for council members that would be in line with the national average — $3,000 annually — salary for councilmen in a mayor-council form of government in cities of our size. Although the increase from $20 per weekly meeting to $300 per month surpasses the 41% pay raise humbly accepted by Congress, Everett Dirksen's awkward argument that "senators have to eat, too," simply does not apply in this case. All that was asked for was more adequate compensation.

It wasn't greed that moved the council to ask the Charter Revision Committee for a review of the salary situation; it was the thought that council members — not just themselves, but anyone who would serve — are grossly underpaid for their services and time. The charter committee after lengthy consideration agreed and thus the amendment was approved for a vote.

Council members — including three who decided not to run again and thus had no irons in the fire — noted that council service is almost a full-time job, not just three or four hours every Monday, and that a modest compensation might be justified in the future to lure qualified Lincolnites into public life. The suggestion by opponents that an increase would attract candidates interested only in the salary should have been an insult to the judgment of Lincoln voters.

But aside from the reasoned arguments set forth by the council, unfortunately more in private than to the public, there was no concerted effort on the part of city leaders to point out the need for the salary increase. It was not an overriding issue, but an important one; one in which the supporting and opposing arguments tend to reflect our opinions of local government.

Do the results of the vote indicate disfavor of the electorate with any increased cost of government, no matter how small? If so, it would mean hard times ahead in view of the pressing need for many public programs and services.

The Explosive Letter

Possibly never before in the history of Nebraska has there been made public such an explosive letter as that reportedly written by State Board of Education member John Londay to a number of his colleagues. In it, the letter speaks of what obviously is the pre-arranged firing on Friday by the board of State Education Commissioner Dr. Floyd Miller.

In this regard, the letter demonstrates both the high-handed methods of Londay and four other members of the board and their careless disregard of proper procedure. Londay speaks with relish of the coming "execution" of Dr. Miller and of the arrangement for and performance of this act in executive session hidden from public view.

Additionally, the letter goes on to embroil the state board in the educational affairs of Omaha and imply state board involvement as it sees fit with local educational districts throughout the state. This clearly is not the intended purpose of the board.

It injects the board, further, into Omaha political affairs and state legislative concern with the issue of public aid to private education.

The board's majority is at odds with Miller basically over the question of school consolidation. That it would handle the matter as Londay has explained in the letter is all but unthinkable. Totally ignored are the many contributions that Dr. Miller has made to the cause of better education in Nebraska. What the group of five apparently seeks is a commissioner who will do their bidding without question and without any convictions of his own.

If the board carries out the many expressed and implied objectives of the letter, including the firing of Dr. Miller, a great disservice will have been done Nebraska.

Your Six Cents Worth

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

We The People

Hebron, Neb.

I ask my fellow Nebraskans: In our state, do we have a government "of the people, by the people and for the people"?

If the governor can openly claim his mind will not be changed, even though hundreds of people have made an effort to contact him by letter to express their facts and opinions? If the Legislature denies public hearings to be held where it will accommodate the interested public? If one is granted a public hearing only to have the state official "leave town" so he doesn't even have to defend his actions in closing a hospital?

What kind of example of "law-abiding" are we getting from our state government when appointments of department heads are made without regard to the rules of qualifications? When department heads disregard rules and regulations when financing the governor's plane, school reorganization plans and expense accounts? Any ordinary citizen would have been hauled into court and received all the penalties law would permit.

This appears to be a dictatorship, with his appointed henchmen. The governor has tuned "we the people" out of his hearing and governs the state to his satisfaction. Yet he clamors for the taxpayer to produce yet more revenue even though the sales tax has yielded above expectations.

Are we subdued and will we accept this strong-arm type of government, or is there yet a chance to get the foot in the door of freedom before it is closed forever? What can we profit from in our state after our freedom has been lost?

Let us not be content with the appearance of things, but look for the true meaning.

Unpaved Roads

Lincoln, Neb.

Regarding Willa Shea's letter on April 7 from way up north (Chicago), I have some questions:

(1) Does she hunt, fish, boat, swim, waterski, trapshoot, have a dog, enjoy hikes, like to take her children to see or participate in any of these activities?

(2) Could she imagine driving to her Lake Michigan on a dirt road, on a hot 100-degree day, behind 30 or 40 sports enthusiasts?

The reason I ask these questions is obvious. The only way to do these recreational activities in the Lincoln-Omaha area is at the prementioned Salt Valley reservoirs. As starved as this area is for these activities, paved roads are certainly warranted.

And I certainly think unpaved roads to specific areas in Nebraska are the concern of taxpaying residents of Nebraska.

Social Security

Grand Island, Neb.

If those needing a boost in Social Security do not write their congressmen, we will not get one this year. Some of us have been holding onto an old house and it is cheaper to help us keep it than to let us lose it.

Look at the increase in salary for Mr. Nixon, $22,000 or more. Also the congressmen have had increases. Look at the increase in Gov. Tiemann's salary and the salaries of his cohorts.

Many of us will not be here in January of 1970.

Let's send in thousands of letters. That is the only chance we have for an increase now. How can they turn us down after their huge increases?

No Riots, Ulcers

Lincoln, Neb.

I can't understand all these laws coming up for our youth. They pass a law that 20-year-olds can buy liquor but not play bingo. We played bingo and many other games at home 30 and 40 years ago and there were no riots as a result and no one got ulcers.

I know there is money in bingo, but there is also money involved in racing. I've seen adults put their whole salaries into races, lose everything and even go in the hole.

They put a health warning on cigarette packs, then let them begin early drinking, which is detrimental to health.

About today's movies, I say if they aren't fit for youth to see, they aren't fit for the parents, either. We were fortunate enough to have good clean fun over Abbott and Costello, Gene Autry, Mutt and Jeff, Roy Rogers, and others. Why can't they do the same today?

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

I feel very smug today for I have just finished applying a chemical to a portion of our lawn taken over in previous years by crabgrass. Every year I have intended to apply this chemical but somehow never accomplished my aim. April came and went in a busy bustle of activity, leaving another year for the crabgrass to spread and flourish.

This year the weather has prevented any activity whatsoever and I have been so eager to get outside to do something. To take my wrath out on the lowly crabgrass satisfied my yen for turning boredom and inactivity to something worthwhile.

I also scattered blue-grass in areas of sparse growth, letting my winter-bound spirit unfetter itself and sail through the air with the seed.

☆ ☆ ☆

A robin hopped along before me, confident that it would come to no harm. It has been here for over a month braving a blizzard and zero temperatures. Misery loves company so perhaps our mutual understanding of the miseries the past weeks brought us together in a common bond.

☆ ☆ ☆

The snow is still banked over the roses. It has melted from the row of lilacs I set out last spring. The weight of the huge drifts took its toll. Every bush has its leading cane broken and many side branches torn ruggedly from the main branches. I was very disgusted when I saw the damage. It would seem my tall lilac hedge that I visualized soon in the future has now turned into a mini hedge.

☆ ☆ ☆

Almost everyone must be as eager to shrug off the shackles of winter as I, considering the number of people I saw working in their yards this afternoon when I went to town. Leaf rakes were being wielded with vigor as if the purpose of the work was to rake the last remnants of a very long winter forever from the memory.

I also noted it was mainly the man of the house who had the rake in his hand. The good woman stood nearby with a sweater gathered loosely about her shoulders pointing to a spot here or a flower plot there that could not go untouched. Perhaps this is called the gentle art of retiring whereby the keep of the yard and garden is turned over to the man, for this is a town of many retired farmers.

To an active farmer the demands of farm work allow little if any time for grooming of the yard. The farm wife plants the garden and coddles the petunias. She and the children keep it free of weeds.

I can well imagine the call of spring to a retired farmer who suddenly finds himself with no wide acres to till and time on his hands. The wife in turn may find a splendid respite in not having the care of yard as her responsibility and gladly shifts the labor to her spouse.

I must say I rather like the idea.

Meeting In Capital Of NATO Ministers

WASHINGTON — Two of the most interesting figures in Europe are in Washington this week for the 20th anniversary of NATO — Foreign Minister Pietro Nenni of Italy and Foreign Minister Willy Brandt of West Germany. They represent a new and important change which is taking place in Western Europe — a trend toward cooperation with the Warsaw Pact countries of the communist world.

Pietro is an old line Italian socialist who once denounced NATO, the organization whose birthday he is now celebrating. He also lined up his Socialist Party with the communists in opposition to the Christian Democratic Party which has governed Italy since World War II.

But when the Red army invaded Hungary in 1956, he broke with the communists, sent his Lenin medal back to Moscow and has been a supporter of NATO ever since. Today he is an important part of the center-left coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialist and Social Democrats which govern Italy.

Willy Brandt, a long-time Social Democrat, had a courageous career as mayor of Berlin and campaigned just as hard against the Christian Democrats of Germany as Nenni did against the Christian Democrats of Italy. He was bitterly denounced by the late Chancellor Adenauer. Today, however, Brandt is working with the Christian Democrats as foreign minister in a coaliton government which is also center-left. Brandt was never against NATO, as Nenni was. He has always been a staunch friend of the United States. But both are privately critical of the war in Vietnam, and last week after the Eisenhower funeral when President Nixon received Chancellor Kurt Kiessinger, Premier Mariano Rumor and other leaders, some were frank in telling him that if he resumed bombing of North Vietnam, there would be civil war in their countries.

President Nixon assured them that there would be no escalation of the war. This undoubtedly was the most important development to come from the post-funeral conferences.

Foreign Minister Nenni, now 78 and the elder statesman of those who gather for the NATO anniversary, is expected to take the lead in proposing that the NATO countries consider carefully the invitation of the communist countries which met in Hungary. It proposed that the Warsaw and NATO countries cooperate for arms reduction and better understanding.

Streets Of New York Offer Daily Free Show; Variety Of Styles, Fashions Outshines Paris

NEW YORK — The human parade may not make much sense these days, but it sure is fancy. New York is no longer merely the center of the theatre in America: it is all theatre. The comedy and girlie shows, all hair and legs, tumble out of the subways and on to the sidewalks every morning and night. Manhattan is now one big masquerade, as exciting as a dog fight and twice as funny.

No city in the world is quite so wonderfully goofy as New York today. It is the peacock of the world — a little grubby but still glittering.

In Moscow, they're still slip-covering their women. In London, you can't tell the fashionable young liberated males and females from one another without a physical examination. Sitting in a Paris sidewalk cafe and just watching the people go by used to be the best free show on earth, but New York is now just one big costume party and makes even Paris seem a little stodgy.

It is almost a common occurrence these days to sit in any New York restaurant for breakfast and watch Mozart float by the window. Or go out for a hamburger at noon and find yourself in a booth between Bonnie and Clyde on one side and some whiskered Ralph Waldo Emerson on the other.

Everybody seems to be pretending to be somebody else, or come from somewhere they've never been. It is now just five years since Jawaharlal Nehru died, and his dream of a stable India is now a nightmare, but the austere Nehru jacket, buttoned to the throat, is still a best seller in the Broadway stores.

☆ ☆ ☆

Across Manhattan to the east (add twenty-five per cent per block from Broadway to Madison Avenue) Edwardian England is in style: men's high-collared, narrow-waisted raincoats straight out of an old George Bernard Shaw play; double-breasted suits; lots of cloth and buttons.

The women seem to be going in the other direction: the greater the fashion, the shorter the skirt, the higher the price. It is a garment manufacturer's dream: the less material, the more money.

Helena Rubenstein has produced a new "Mykonos" line of cosmetics, named after the Greek island, which will presumably make you look like either a Greek goddess or Jackie Kennedy Onassis, which is not a bad daily-double.

Revlon, not to be out-done by Rubenstein, has "gazed into the gypsy's crystal ball" according to the advertisements, and come up with something called the "Mexicolor Mouth" to go with Yves St. Laurent's "gypsy look." It is a time for escape. The rich want to look like gypsies, and the poor like Victorian nobles.

What is surprising and crazy and amusing is that so many people have taken up the escapist fashion. It is a hard time for bald men and fat women, but the contrivances of commerce are endless. Most New Yorkers, of course, need no costumes. They wear the natural mask of the world in all its shapes, sizes and colors. But now we have a new parade of women in their pants and jump suits, and Spanish hats, and mini-skirts, and maxi coats; and men with Biblical beards, like the Sunday school drawings, and ragged clothes and sandals. You can see them all any day wolfing hot-dogs next to soft-shouldered, buttoned-collared Brooks Brothers types in one-armed joints on Lexington Avenue.

Even Joe Pepitone at first base for the Yankees may strangle himself one of these nights sliding into second base with his long shaggy hair-do, but at least he will be interesting even if he doesn't hit .200.

The modern parade whatever else it is won't put you to sleep. Maybe all these characters are trying to express themselves or forget themselves, but skip the significance. Whatever else we see, at least the toothbrush male hair-cut of a few years ago, with its hideous white ridge of skull, is gone, and the new parade on the streets is more varied.

The law of compensations works in a funny way. There is something ridiculous about old avuncular men in their new store clothes trying to look like Johnny Carson, and the porky little girls shivering up out of the subway with mini-skirts and shoe-polish on their eyelids trying to look like Elizabeth Taylor. But the parade is a riot and a circus. When everybody is doing "his thing," even if he doesn't know what it is, New York — all of it — is a stage with a better free show than anything else in town.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Young People's Casual Regard For Dollar Upsets Senior Citizen

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "Don't you get upset at young people's casual regard for a dollar. When I went to work in 1932 I earned a dollar a day — and was glad to get it. But what's a dollar today? I offered a teen-age boy a dollar to shovel the snow off my driveway and he laughed in my face. And I'm still stinging from last spring when I sent our granddaughter a dollar for graduation and she sent it back. Her Dad said she thought it too insignificant to keep."

A. — Most of us along in years can remember how important a dollar bill was back in depression days. But we've got to update our thinking and realize that due to inflation dollars are different today. They're still not exactly peanuts but they don't inspire the awe and respect they did in the dear, dead days of long ago. But this doesn't exonerate your granddaughter -- she deserves a spanking for her rudeness.

Q. — "We've moved around a lot — lived in 18 different houses and apartments during 40 years of marriage. I've got asthma and can't breathe near polluted air, smoke, cats or potted plants. So when John retired we bought and paid cash for a small co-op apartment in the suburbs. This was to be our last move. Now we've discovered the building has its own incinerator and the soot and smoke gives me fits two or three days weekly depending on wind direction. What can we do?"

A. — I've got deepest sympathy for anyone with asthma, for victims of this insidious affliction can be miserable. Your story will caution other asthma victims to check the incinerator situation before moving to suburban apartments. If your building management has no plans to eliminate the incinerator, you'll probably have to sell your apartment and move again. Next time see if you can't arrange a trial occupancy before buying quarters so as to make sure the air is pure and the neighbors don't have cats or grow goldenrod and ragweed in their window boxes.

Q. — "We're retired and rattling around in an eight-room house which cost us just $5,000 back in depression days but is worth $20,000 today. We'd love to sell but hate to consider it because we'll have to pay a 25% capital gains tax on that $15,000 profit we've made on the house."

A. — Not anymore you won't. The new tax law says that folks past 65 who own homes worth up to $20,000 which they have lived in for five of the past eight years can sell them and are exempt from paying any tax on the gains. If the house sells for more than $20,000, there is a graduating tax but it's much less for elders than the usual capital gains tax.

Lewis And Clark Trail Hearing Set May 12, St. Louis

Washington (AP) — The Lewis and Clark Trail Commission announced that a public hearing will be held May 12 in St. Louis.

The commission chairman, Sherry R. Fisher, said the hearing in the old courthouse is the last of three which the commission has scheduled to hear the public's views on ways of improving the commission's program.

Hearings were held last year in Bismarck, N.D., and Portland, Ore.

The commission asked those interested in making a statement at the hearing to advise the chairman before May 7, in care of A. Heaton Underhill, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

This Week's Health Tip

Here's a health tip from the Nebrasks State Medical Association:

Spring weather induces people to take to the highways. Increased traffic then causes more accidents. If you are witness to a wreck, please remember that the best way you can aid an accident victim is to resist the impulse to move the injured person and rush him to a hospital.

Hastily moving an injured person can be disastrous for they often have spinal injuries, and moving the victim could make him a lifelong cripple.

Dragging a victim from the wreckage can also cause a broken rib to puncture a lung, or increase hemorrhaging, or produce fatal shock.

Unless the victim is exposed to greater dangers, such as fire or drowning, give him first aid where he is, and wait for experienced ambulance personnel to do the moving.

Scholarship Fund Drive Announced

Students in the University of Nebraska Teachers College at Lincoln are raising funds to establish a Centennial Scholarship through the sale of University Centennial Stamps.

Barbara Hansen of Omaha chairman of the student committee, said the activity is being carried out by the Teachers College Advisory Committee. The activity is part of the Teachers College Centennial observance during April.

Other members of the scholarship committee are Dr. Norman F. Thorpe, associate dean of Teachers College; Dr. Loren Bonneau, associate professor of history and philosophy of education; Elizabeth Lueder. sophomore from Omaha; Judi Riggs, junior from Park Forest, Ill. and Paula Teigeler, sophomore from Fremont.

Composer Dies

London (UPI) — Ralph Butler, a British songwriter popular between the two world wars, died at the age of 82.

NU Applications Deadline Is July 1

With nearly 5,000 applications for admission already in and about half of these students already notified of acceptance, University of Nebraska Director of Admissions John Aronson Wednesday reminded high school seniors that the deadline for completing applications for admission to the university this fall is July 1.

Aronson added that applications for summer school must be completed by June 1.

"Either of these applications should be started a month in advance of the deadline, however," he said.

The director of admissions noted that although the deadlines for admission applications are not critical yet, there is one pressing date that students considering attending the university should keep in mind.

"April 19 is the final day for registering for the College Board Student Aptitude Test. The last nationwide administration of this exam meeting the university's schedule, will be on May 3 and both freshmen and transfer students must submit scores on this examination to be considered for admission," said Aronson.

He also announced that students who have received letters of acceptance may pre-register for the fall term until Aug. 1 and for the summer session until May 9.

NATO's Future Uncertain As Officials Gather For Talks

© New York Times Service

By DREW MIDDLETON

Washington — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization has entered its third decade uncertain which of its two considerations, defense or political detente, will dominate its attitude toward the Soviet bloc in the 1970s.

Events may force the alliance's foreign and defense ministers, who meet here Thursday, to choose NATO's course earlier than anticipated.

Seven ships of the Soviet northern fleet entered the Mediterranean Wednesday to reinforce about 30 Soviet ships stationed there. They comprised a light guided missile cruiser, a light cruiser, a destroyer escort and four submarines.

Manlio Brosio, NATO's secretary general, said at a news conference the reinforcement showed that Soviet policy remained "expansionist," militarily as well as politically. He and U.S. delegation sources conceded, however, that the ministerial meeting would also have to frame some answer to the Warsaw Pact's proposal for a European security conference.

Statement Prepared

The North Atlantic Council, NATO's executive of ambassadors of the 15 member nations, has prepared a joint statement laying down guidelines for the West in negotiations with the Soviet Union and its allies. This document, which will be considered by the foreign ministers, is expected to affect their answer to the Warsaw Pact proposal.

This proposal, made on March 17, called for a "pan-European conference on security and coexistence."

Brosio said the wording of the appeal included "unacceptable pre-conditions," among them the implication that the United States and Canada would be barred from the conference. Others have considered that the wording left U.S. and Canadian participation open to discussion.

The NATO ministers, it has been agreed, will have to answer the Budapest appeal in their communique, either directly or in words that can be construed as an answer.

Since the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia, the requirements of military defense have been paramount in the alliance. According to qualified sources both the NATO Council and its military commanders have been reviewing NATO's capacities in the event of Soviet action against Central Europe's "grey areas" — countries like Austria, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Finland not covered by the North Atlantic Treaty but whose independence is considered vital to European stability.

Detente Revived

Agitation for a new effort toward detente, has revived among the governments, parliaments and people of NATO. But the steady growth of Soviet strength in the Mediterranean and the possibility of new pressures in Central Europe appear to inhabit any adventurous approach at this meeting.

All members recognize an opportunity for new contacts with the Soviet Union and the other states of Eastern Europe, although the motives of some politicians are far different from what they were before Czechoslovakia. But the alliance's governments differ on the extent and purpose of such contacts.

Powerful political elements in Britain, the Scandinavian countries and the Low Countries criticize Portugal for her colonial policy and Greece for her authoritarian regime.

Canada, whose government participated forcefully in establishing the alliance, has been considering either withdrawal or a sharp reduction in the military forces now committed.

Europe's new left, deprived to some degree by the Paris peace talks of its prime target, the U.S. intervention in Vietnam, attacks the pact with mounting force in parliamentary speeches and street demonstrations. To Europe's youth, NATO is an anachronism.

The world in which the alliance enters its 21st year is very different from that of April 4, 1949, when 12 governments signed the North Atlantic Treaty in Washington. Western Europe was feeble — militarily, economically and politically. A powerful, expansionist Soviet Union recently had dragooned Czechoslovakia into communism. The strength of the United States, then the only atomic power, appeared limitless.

NATO Strength Impressive

Today, the alliance's military strength, on paper, is impressive. NATO's commander in the event of war could call on about 54 divisions in the European theater stretching from northern Norway to Turkey, plus about 15 independent brigades. Under optimum conditions this would provide ground forces numbering well over 800,000.

Such conditions do not now prevail and it is uncertain whether they would prevail in the event of a crisis. Many of the divisions and brigades are well under normal peace strength.

The 26 Soviet divisions in Eastern Europe are the most important element in the Warsaw Pact forces. Normally, 20 of these are stationed in East Germany, two in Poland and four in Hungary. The divisions are maintained at or near combat strength.

Allied with them are 62 divisions of the active pact countries, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland and Rumania. These provide the East with an apparently overwhelming edge in number of divisions.

Prison Visits Plan Moves In Colorado

Denver (AP)—The Colorado House gave overwhelming preliminary support Wednesday to a bill which would permit overnight conjugal visits by wives of inmates at the Colorado State Penitentiary in Canon City.

The bill will be up for final approval Thursday.

Rep. Paco Sanchez, D-Denver, a native of Mexico, introduced the bill. He told lawmakers the measure was designed to preserve the family unit and is based on programs now in effect in Mexico.

Sanchez called it a humane bill, "not aimed at sex but at the family."

He told the legislature that prisoners are no more or less human than those outside prison walls.

The preliminary approval was given on a standing vote.

Pipeline Planned

Moscow (UPI) — The newspaper Sovietskaya Rosiya said that Russians were planning to build a pipeline more than 27 miles long to transport mineral water.

Gas Halts Rally

Stockholm (UPI) — A rally called by Swedish supporters of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front had to be called off after someone exploded a tear gas grenade in the auditorium, police said.

ACTION LINE

Dial 477-2121 or Write P.O. Box 1547
Lincoln, Nebraska 68501

Want a question answered? Action on something? Phone or write your request to ACTION LINE, The Lincoln Star or Sunday Journal and Star (see address above), giving your name or initials and town and specifying daily Star or Sunday. Personal contacts or telephone calls to other numbers will be refused. Inquiries not answered daily or Sunday within 30 days will be eliminated to permit publication of more recent inquiries.

One of your recent editorials stated a person that did not own property could not vote in the school board election. That does not sound right to me. Could you have goofed?
—Citizen, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Ooops, says Lincoln Star Editor William Dobler. State law says in order to be a qualified voter in school district elections, one must either be a property owner (that is, assessed on property such as land or auto in that school district) or have children of school age in that district. A person can have children of school age and not own property and still vote in the district.

Many of my little friends say dogs are color blind. I would like an answer from you. —Kim Kramer, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: According to a local veterinarian, dogs are basically color blind. Wonder how a seeing-eye dog knows when to lead its master across the street when the light changes? The dog listens to the sound of the traffic direction and can hear the clicks of the traffic control device when it changes the light from red to green. However, since no one has ever talked to a dog about being color blind, tell your little friends what the vet says, but remind them the dog has the final word.

Would like to know if the two men that found the downed airplane near Anselmo received the reward offered earlier in the search. —Mrs. B.F. Byron

ACTION LINE: A light plane with six passengers from Augustana College in Sioux Falls, S.D. was reported missing January 11. Dr. Charles Balcer, president of Augustana, said about $1,500 was pledged by friends of the college as a reward for information leading to the plane's discovery. This offer was good for about one month after the aircraft was reported missing and made in hope the passengers could be found alive during that month's time. After hope was abandoned that the six could be found alive, the reward offer was cancelled. Therefore the two coyote hunters that found the wreckage March 25 on a farm ten miles west and three miles north of Anselmo did not receive a reward.

July 16, 1968, I sent a $2.50 money order to the U.S. Assay Office in San Francisco, Calif. for one U.S. coin mint set. Nothing yet. —Dennis Williams, Stella ACTION LINE: There are 833,669 orders ahead of your order number U-833670. The California office says expect the mint set about mid-May.

During the Eisenhower funeral services, I heard often the song "Hail to the Chief". What is the background of this song? —R.V., Omaha

ACTION LINE: The song was introduced around 1823 and is better known as an instrumental piece than a song. The music was composed by James Sanderson and the words are those of the "Boat Song" in Sir Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake".

I am looking forward to a postage stamp honoring the late general and U.S. President Dwight Eisenhower. When will this be? —Philatelist, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Postmaster General Winton Blount says a special stamp honoring Eisenhower will be issued October 14, with first-day sale at Abilene, Kansas. In case the reader is not aware of the word "philatelist", it means one who deals in the collecting and study of postage and imprinted stamps.

What's with having Lincoln's Centennial April 7? I thought we did that bit some ten years ago?—T.W., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The celebration in 1959 was for the founding of the village of Lancaster (later Lincoln). The village of Lincoln was not incorporated, however, until April 7, 1869 — celebrated Monday.

How many dogs are now in use with the Lincoln Police Dept. and what are their ages? —Tom Allen, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Three. Kep is 11 years old, Tap is 5 years and Rep is 2 years.

ACTION LINE NOTE: Inquirers to ACTION LINE must remember the volume of mail necessitates elimination of some inquiries. We wish we could investigate all inquiries, but this is impossible, therefore queries not published within 30 days are eliminated unanswered to permit publication of those used. ACTION LINE would appreciate no phone calls or letters asking why a certain inquiry went unanswered.

KUON-TV Gets $200,000 For Series On Negroes

University of Nebraska Television Wednesday was named recipient of a $200,000 program grant from the Ford Foundation to produce a series of programs on the Negro in the Great Plains.

Announcement of the grant came during a national meeting of educational television state representatives in New York City.

Jack McBride, director of university television and general manager of KUON-TV, Ch. 12 in Lincoln, said the grant would be used to produce a series of programs entitled "The Black Frontier." The seven programs, to be produced in color, will focus on the role of the Negro in the founding and settlement of the Great Plains.

Dr. Joseph Soshnik, president of the Lincoln campuses of the university, said "this grant from the Ford Foundation is most welcome. We are glad that the contributions of the Negro in the Plains area are being recognized by means of this highly worthwhile project. We are proud of the management and staff of university television, KUON-TV."

Bill Oxley, program manager of KUON-TV, said production would begin in the fall of 1969 for broadcast in early 1970. He added that while the series is intended primarily for "public television" audiences, the programs would have applicability in the classroom since all would be based on historical fact.

Oxley said Negroes would play a major role in development and production of the series.

Plans call for a leading Negro historian to be hired as a consultant for the series, black history students to serve as researchers, and a black producer-director to guide production of the programs.

It also is hoped that a leading Negro entertainer can be engaged to serve as host-narrator for the programs.

MISS PAMELA ANN EXON

Of particular interest to town circles, as well as those on the University of Nebraska and Nebraska Wesleyan University campuses, is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Exon of the engagement of their daughter, Pamela Ann, to Alan Lee Bricker, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bricker.

Miss Exon has attended Nebraska Wesleyan University, where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, and the University of Colorado. She currently is attending the University of Nebraska.

Mr. Bricker is a former student at the University of Nebraska and now is serving with the U.S. Navy, and is based at Lemoore, Calif.

Everything Is Back To Normal

Busy picking up the bits and pieces following an Easter weekend that was filled with activity of every conceivable variety are residents of Lincoln's many suburban neighborhoods. By now we suspect that all of the eggs have been accounted for; that guests have said their good-byes, and Lincoln residents have begun to wend their way back home from both near and far away vacation spots. So from all indications, the holiday has come to an end — it was fun while it lasted, but now back to business!

One sure sign that vacation is over has to do with the younger generation, the members of which have once again picked up their pencils and books for the final six or seven weeks before the summer holiday. Last Saturday, however, the thoughts of one group of youngsters — namely those who live in the Southwood area — were just about as far away from the classroom as they could be.

The Southwood Neighborhood Association sponsored an Easter egg hunt which took place last Saturday afternoon. We understand that the mothers in the area supplied all of the colored eggs, and special prizes were won by a number of the participants. Although the event had to be moved into the clubhouse because of the muddy grounds, the 35 youngsters who took part agreed that an Easter egg hunt — indoors or out — was an excellent way to spend a Saturday afternoon.

Birthday cakes and Easter rabbits go together very well — Just ask Rosemont residents Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spreier and family, whose experiences last weekend allow them to evaluate that statement with a great deal of aplomb. Numerous guests were on hand Sunday afternoon for a dinner held in observance of Easter and also to honor the birthday of Mr. and Mrs. Spreiers' daughter, Sherrie, who became a two-year-old on April 3. Participating in the festivities were Mr. Spreier's mother, Mrs. Betty Spreier; Mrs. Spreier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Marquart of Byron; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rutland and son, Michael, also of Byron; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Grafelman and family; and Mr. and Mrs. Spreiers' other children, Lonnie and Kristie.

We understand that an Easter egg hunt was also on the day's agenda; and joining the other guests later in the day for cake and ice cream were Mrs. Elayne Henry and son, Troy.

Very happy to welcome a daughter and sister into their home last week were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jiracek and daughters, Kimberly and Jennifer of Kimballcrest. Arriving in Lincoln from Denver, Colo., was Miss Lynne Jiracek who was a Tuesday-to-Friday visitor. Mrs. Jiracek tells us that Lynne also found time to call on a number of friends during her stay; and to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dickinson she brought greetings from their daughter, Miss Sue Dickinson, who now resides in San Francisco and with whom Lynne recently spent a weekend.

On Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Jiracek took Lynne to the airport for her return trip to Colorado, after which they themselves became travelers. Mr. and Mrs. Jiracek, Kimberly and Jennifer, motored to Verdigre, where they spent the holiday weekend with Mr. Jiracek's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jiracek, Sr.

TALK AROUND TOWN

If we had an extra moment or two we might speculate on what happened to one-third of April — It has gone. Or, we might go into our old song and dance about how Fourth of July will be here before you know it — and right on top of the Fourth — well, we're looking forward to those football Saturdays.

We have no need to delve into the future to find activity, however. The current calendar seems to be bulging at the seams what with guests and with the Venice Biennale (American Section) about to lower the curtain on the fantastic exhibit at the Sheldon Gallery.

This week's Biennale guest artist is James McGarrell of Bloomington, Ind., where he is on the University of Indiana faculty, and it goes without saying, of course, that a variety of courtesies in his honor are dotting the calendar.

Complimenting Mr. McGarrell on Wednesday evening for instance, were Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hillegass who invited guests to dinner at the Lincoln Country Club.

* * *

The Venetian influence, however, will not be hovering around the ballroom at Hotel Lincoln next Tuesday evening — That is the when and the where of the Fifty-Fifty Club dinner dance, and it is to be a South of the Border party. The arrangements committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Randolph and Mr. and Mrs. Clair Shuman, co-chairmen; Dr. and Mrs. William Hervert, Mr. and Mrs. Walton Ferris, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jorgensen, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heiman and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lauck.

Latest News In Coats

BY BERNADINE MORRIS
(c) New York Times Service

New York — Caution: the next girl you see running around in broad daylight in a coat long enough to sweep the floor is not necessarily left over from the night before. She may merely be wearing the new daytime length for coats.

When everybody is wearing skirts above the knees, a girl has to do something different to get people to look. She can take off some clothes or put on some clothes, and these days she can attract more attention by putting them on.

How long has this long coat thing been going on? Well, not counting Victorians, for about six years. That's when Rudi Gernreich and Christian Dior each showed long coats. Nobody paid much attention.

A year ago some coats were offered at mid-calf length. A lot of women didn't like the length because, if they were out of their teens, they said it made them look older, and if they were short, they said it made them look dumpy.

The floor sweepers give them a long, clean line from top to bottom, and make them look taller, says Norman Norell, for one. Last year he tried calf lengths. He went right back to short skirts in his next collection. Now he says calf lengths were dowdy, but he's happy about the ones that go down to the floor.

Who's wearing these long coats? Women such as Mrs. Wyatt Cooper (Gloria Vanderbilt) and Mrs. Robert C. Scull, the art collector's wife. Also, youngsters like Penelope Tree who were among the first to take up miniskirts. And lots of secretaries, fashion editors and girls around Bloomingdale's.

Why girls around Bloomingdale's? Because the store's on the east side where the swingers live. And because it's been selling long coats since last August when it opened its Mic Mac shop.

The store sold "every one we could get our hands on," according to Dick Hauser, a Bloomingdale's executive. That included about 300 Mic Mac styles, which came from Europe, at $150. 40 leather coats lined in curly white lamb at $350, and hundreds of canvas coats from La Flaque de Paris at $75.

The canvas coats were designed by Victor Joris, who's been making long coats for at least five years but says "this is the first year they've been selling." They've been selling in such places as Beverly Hills, Chicago, Youngstown, Boston and Philadelphia as well as in Bloomingdale's.

Fired by success, Joris has done a long coat in linen for summer. Who needs a long coat for summer? Anybody who wants to be looked at. Gayle Kirkpatrick designed one in poplin with matching shorts. He thinks it's a great idea for the beach.

Besides shorts, the coats may be worn with long pants. The Wacs did a batch of long coats for Originals for fall and they all have pants to go with them. Lavino Verna of Laurence Gross likes them with a long sweater and a short skirt.

"Nobody wants to look ordinary anymore," said Don Simonelli, another designer who's been pushing long coats for at least five years. "Everybody wants to dress up."

If the style is going to catch on, it's going to be this year, he added.

TOPS To Honor Losers

The big losers will be the real winners to be honored on Saturday when the Nebraska TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) Clubs will hold their annual State Recognition Day in Lincoln, at Pershing Auditorium.

Representatives of the approximately 4,000 members of 189 clubs throughout the state will be registered for the annual convention, and many will participate in the 50-pound fashion parade Saturday morning, when club members who have lost at least 50 pounds of weight will model their "fat dresses", casually stepping out of them to reveal their new, chic "slim dresses."

The climax of the two-day meeting will follow with the coronation of the organization's "royalty", the state TOPS Queen, King, Teen Princess, Pre-Teen Princess, the Stork Club Queen and the KOPS (Keep Off Pounds Sensibly) Queen. The "royalty", of course, are those who have lost the most weight in their particular weight division.

First organized in Milwaukee, Wis., in 1948, TOPS clubs have been established throughout the nation and in many parts of the world, to provide companionship and friendly competition for its members who are under their personal physician's orders to lose weight.

The sometimes almost-miraculous success of the members is aided by the encouragement provided by fellow club members who serve to stiffen faltering will power.

At each club meeting, the members get out the scales, the tape measure, and repeat the TOPS Pledge: "I am an intelligent person. I will control my emotions, not let my emotions control me. Everytime I am tempted to use food to satisfy my frustrated desires, build up my injured ego, or dull my senses, I will remember, even though I overeat in private, that my excess poundage is there for all the world to see. What a fool I've been"!

Individual club Queens will be recognized at the opening session Friday afternoon, followed by a tea at the Hotel Cornhusker honoring Mrs. Lorraine Manke of Milwaukee, Wis., area director, and Mrs. Leona Hewitt of Kenesaw, formerly of Lincoln, state supervisor.

Friday evening, Dr. Frederick M. Nebe will address the delegates, and a convention speaker on Saturday will be Dr. Hazel Fox, chairman of the department of food and nutrition at the University of Nebraska.

The convention will close with a banquet on Saturday.

Party Is Shower For April Bride-To-Be

Entertaining at a bridal courtesy last Saturday afternoon were Mrs. Walter Witt and Mrs. Harland Taylor who honored spring bride-elect, Miss Marcia Baker, at an informal party held at the home of Mrs. Witt.

Miss Baker, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Baker, has chosen Saturday, April 12, as the date for her marriage to Gary Wittstruck, son of Robert A. Wittstruck, and the late Mrs. Wittstruck.

Club To Hear Panel

The Lincoln Business and Professional Women's Club will meet for a 6 o'clock dinner, Thursday, at Pilgrim Congregational Church.

Miss Virginia Parrish will moderate a panel on "This I Believe", and speakers will be Miss Susan Borgens, student, and Dr. Norman Thorpe, faculty member of the University of Nebraska; and club members, Mrs. Carl Miller and Mrs. Marjorie Neill.

New YW Classes

The Lincoln YWCA has announced that registration is open for many new classes for adults scheduled for the spring months.

Beginning at 1 o'clock, Monday afternoon, will be the new eight-week course in painting, to be instructed by Miss Emma Baegl.

An evening session of painting will begin at 7:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening, and will be instructed by Mrs. Leslie F. Blumer.

Mrs. Joel E. McLafferty will serve as instructor for an interesting series of genealogy classes. The five-week workshop will begin at 9:30 o'clock, Monday morning, April 28.

A two-session class in flower arranging also has been planned. The classes will be held at 9:30 o'clock, Tuesday mornings, May 6 and May 13. The instructor will be Mrs. Glen Litzenberg.

Registration may be made by calling the YW, 432-2802.

Betrothal Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fischer make announcement this morning of the engagement of their daughter, Janice Marie, to Jack Handa, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Handa.

Saturday, Aug. 2, has been chosen as the date of the wedding.

Miss Fischer is a junior at Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is majoring in English

Mr. Handa was graduated last December from Nebraska Wesleyan where he majored in physical education.

Attendants

Revealing plans for her April wedding is Miss Kathleen Bolz who has announced that her marriage to William Masek will be solemnized Saturday afternoon, April 19, at St. Mary's Church in Lincoln.

Attending Miss Bolz as matron of honor for the 5:30 o'clock ceremony will be Mrs. Jerald Worm, and the bridesmatrons will be Mrs. Paul Malzer, Jr., and Mrs. Gary Steinke. Miss Beth Kresak will be the bridesmaid, and Mr. Masek's sister, Miss Monica Masek of Valparaiso, will attend Miss Bolz as flower girl.

Serving as best man will be Jerald Worm, and the groomsmen will be Mr. Masek's brother, Anthony Masek and Don Kobza, both of Valparaiso, and Eugene Bolz, brother of the bride-to-be. Seating the guests will be Paul Malzer, Jr., and Ray Dittmer.

Entertaining feminine members of the family and family friends on Sunday afternoon, March 30, were the bride-elect's aunts who were hostesses at the Legion Hall in Palmyra.

A miscellaneous shower was presented to Miss Bolz recently when feminine members of Mr. Masek's family entertained at St. Mary's Church hall in Valparaiso.

Also honoring the bride-to-be recently were Mrs. Jerald Worm and Miss Beth Kresak who were hostesses to 20 guests at the home of Mrs. Worm. During the informal party, a kitchen shower was presented to Miss Bolz, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bolz of Bennet. Her fiance's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Anton Masek of Valparaiso.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — jack of hearts.

Put yourself in the West seat and imagine that all you see is dummy's hand and your own. You lead the jack of hearts and South wins with the king, East playing the deuce. You then take the diamond return with the king and it's now your play. What would you lead?

Actually, there's only one right play — the ten of clubs. If you lead it, South goes down; if you don't, South makes the contract.

If declarer wins with the ace, you finish with three club tricks and the A-K of diamonds. If declarer covers the ten with the jack, East wins with the king and returns the seven, while if declarer ducks the ten, so does your partner. A club continuation then establishes the two more club tricks you need.

Note that if you lead a low club at trick three, declarer ducks in dummy and cannot be stopped from making four notrump.

How are you supposed to know that the ten of clubs is the right play at trick three? Well, look at it this way. From studying dummy, you can count eight tricks for declarer — three hearts, four diamonds and a club — and it's a sure thing from the bidding that South has a ninth trick comfortably tucked away somewhere in his hand.

So you mustn't just stand pat by making a "safe" lead of another heart, or you'll be handing South the contract without a fight.

You have to attack to succeed, and declarer's only possible weak spot must be in clubs. For a spade shift to be right, your partner would need something like the A-Q-J-10, which on the bidding is next to impossible.

For East to have the king of clubs is by no means out of the question. That's why you attack clubs, being careful, of course, to lead the ten in case South has the nine.

Square Dance

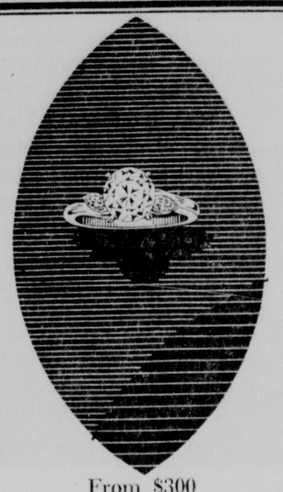

The members of the Swing-'em In Gingham Square Dance Club will hold their Friday evening dance at the City Recreation Bldg., 1225 F, instead of at the Antelope Park pavilion.

Wedding Plans Are Announced

Miss Marcia Baker, whose betrothal to Gary Wittstruck was revealed earlier this year, has announced that her wedding will take place on Saturday, April 12.

Miss Marissa Baker will attend her sister as maid of honor for the 3 o'clock ceremony, and the bridesmatron will be Mrs. David Priess. Miss Linda Johnson will be the bridesmaid.

Serving Mr. Wittstruck as best man will be Michael Zimmerman, and the groomsmen will be David Priess and Virgil Packett.

Mrs. JayCess Award Winner

The Lincoln Mrs. JayCees honored one of their members for outstanding service to the organization and community, Wednesday evening, at the April meeting of the group, held at the Legion Club.

Mrs. Dick Schneider was presented the organization's Dedicated Service Award in recognition of the many activities and projects she has furthered for the statewide Mrs. JayCees as well as the local group.

A wife, homemaker, mother of three children, and part time employe of a Lincoln bank, Mrs. Schneider has found time for church and school activities as well as guiding a group of Brownie Scouts.

The recipient of the Outstanding Mrs. JayCee Award of Lincoln, and also of the Nebraska organization in 1966, Mrs. Schneider has been nominated for Outstanding Young Women of America for 1969.

She has served as a state vice president, and for the Lincoln group, as publicity director, vice president, president, and advisor.

PTA Convention

Topics of pertinent interest in education circles will be highlighted at the 47th annual convention of the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers, to be held at McCook, next Wednesday and Thursday, April 16 and 17.

A panel discussion on "PTA's Role in Teacher Negotiations and Teacher Strikes," will be moderated by Dr. James Herfkens, assistant superintendent of Columbus Schools, and chairman of education for the state PTA.

Panel speakers will include Mrs. William E. Nichol, president of the Scottsbluff board of education and immediate past president of the state PTA; Dr. Earlyon Lamberty, assistant executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association; and Mrs. R. J. Powell of Clinton, Mo., National PTA chairman of the committee on juvenile protection, and a member of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, and of the National Juvenile Court Foundation.

Mrs. Powell also will address the delegates at the opening session on the convention theme, "PTA Communications in Modern America," and featured speaker following the Wednesday evening dinner will be W. W. Nuernberger of Lincoln, judge of the Juvenile Court, Lancaster County, and president-elect of the National Juvenile Court Judges Association. Judge Nuernberger's topic will be, "Children With Problems — The Need for Concern and Involvement."

Also of current interest to PTA members will be the talk to be given by Dr. E. Warren Peterson, superintendent of McCook Schools, who will present a view of the State Board of Education as a PTA concern.

Convention speakers also will include Jeff Royall of Denver, humorist, world traveler and author. A native of London, England, and now an American citizen, Mr. Royall is the recipient of a Freedom Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa., award for his Independence Day editorial, "Beatitudes of Freedom."

Proposed changes in the legislative action program of the National Congress of PTA will be voted on by the delegates, who also will elect a second vice president and secretary, for which Mrs. Everett P. Dietz of Omaha, and Mrs. Myron Hilgert of Norfolk, respectively, are the nominees.

State officers and members of the board of managers attending from Lincoln will be Mrs Harold H. Thompson, state president, Mrs. Eber Tice, second vice president, Mrs. Donald O. Hipple, Mrs. Marvin Stewart, Dr. Corwin L. Enevoldsen, Mrs. Robert W. Beggs, Mrs. Emmett Taylor, Jerry L. Sandy and Mrs. R. W. Hadfield.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a very mature 17-year-old-girl, and I like a man who is 31. He has been married for eight years, but for six years he and his wife have had an understanding, and they do as they please with no questions asked. He is a very nice person and he respects me.

I would like to talk to my mother about him, but I am sure she wouldn't understand. To me, age doesn't matter as long as we feel the same about each other. Whenever he is around, I get butterflies in my stomach. Can you advise me?

BUTTERFLIES..

DEAR BUTTERFLIES: What may feel like "butterflies" in your stomach could be bats in your belfry. I can't imagine bigger trouble for a 17-year-old girl than an involvement with a 31-year-old married man who has an "understanding" with his wife. He's not as "nice" as you think he is. Lose him.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think there is any harm in women wrestling with each other in the privacy of a home if they are related or good friends?

My husband does.

My mother lives with us and we three get along just fine. The other night my husband was asleep on the sofa and my mother and I were sitting on her bed, just talking. We were kidding around and started a playful pillow fight. It finally developed into a wrestling match. We got to laughing and screaming, and the noise woke my husband.

He was very mad at us and said two grown women should not be wrestling with each other. I honestly can't see anything wrong with it, can you?

DARLENE

DEAR DARLENE: Not as long as you hold the noise down.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69600, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rita's Mailbox

Dear Rita: Just reading about the idea of a genealogical column in your paper. Sounds great. I enjoy many things in the Star—Cryptoquote, crosswords, but miss very much the story each day. I wrote asking why it was discontinued but received a very vague answer. Do you know why?

My hobbies are knitting, sewing, and a diary scrapbook. I am knitting a sweater with 10 colors using bobbins for each color.

The scrapbook is fun too. I try to enter interesting things happening in the world and in the family each month Family news items, a picture, an announcement of a wedding or birth, a good joke or poem I heard that month, weather of interest, first frost, or when we planted the potatoes.

Each year my nephews autograph under their school picture. It is fun to see how they improve each year in their handwriting. I save an interesting stamp as the Christmas special on T.B. seals each year.

This may sound like a hodge-podge of collections but it makes an interesting panorama of our family lives.

Hope you can get the stories started again! Sincerely, Mrs. Alvin C. Groesser, Weeping Water.

Thank you, Mrs. Groesser, for your interesting letter. Your ideas on your scrapbook are very clever and the best I have heard about.

I do not have anything to do with the story department but I do know that there are a lot of problems connected with running stories in the paper. The paper is read by readers of all ages. Many of today's stories are not for young eyes to behold.

The best way to get something started is to let the editors know what you would like to see in the paper. Who knows, perhaps we shall even have a story some day. Personally, I think that the Star has one of the best Women's Sections in the country, and it is improving all of the time.

Most of our readers and correspondents are women. Today we have the pleasure of hearing from a gentleman who is very interested in genealogy, especially that relating to the fascinating subject of heraldry.

Dear Friend: I was much interested in your numerous writers interested in genealogy. If any of them would like to have their coat of arms made up, I am an old timer at heraldry, having worked with the Historical Society in this respect, under Mrs. Payne, years back. I can read and know the true colors and so forth from their description. Most Gratefully, Allan S. Kennedy, Lincoln.

If any one is interested in having Mr. Kennedy's address I will send it to them upon receipt of a self-addressed and stamped envelope with their request. We do not guarantee anyone's work however.

Beauty Questions Answered

Josephine Lowman

Q. It's nice to have someone like you to write to. Even if we cannot talk it is a pleasure. I am 5 feet 5, medium frame I think, and weigh between 138 and 140 pounds. That is the most I have ever weighed. It seems hard to gain any more. I have a good appetite and eat the right kinds of food. I am 60 years old and do not feel my age. I have lots of pep and am a person who likes to do things. Please tell me if I am near what I should be.

My measurements are bust — 38½, waist — 28½, and hips — 39 inches. It will be a big thrill to see your answer in our local paper.

A. I do not know why you are trying to gain weight because you are not underweight. In fact, you are just right, if you have a medium build. Your measurements are in good ratio but suggest to me that you should not gain any more and might even lose 4 or 5 pounds. If your frame is small you ought to lose 8 or 10. It's fun, and very pleasant writing to you, too.

Q. Is it possible to make a few substitutions on your reducing menus? Will this ruin my chances for losing my overweight?

A. You can make substitutions if you are sure that the foods have the same number of calories. They should also belong to the same category of food. For instance, do not substitute a potato for an orange or greens for fish.

Q. I have noticed that a few of my eyelashes fall out when I remove eyeliner with mascara remover. Is there something in this cosmetic that makes the lashes fall out? I do not want to become eyelashless.

A. So far as I know there is no ingredient in the product which would cause this, unless you happen to be allergic to something in it. Certainly most women are not. A certain amount of shedding is natural. Perhaps you are too rough when removing the lashes. Be gentle in the procedure.

Q. I am 26 years old and already have "crepey" eyelids. My skin has never been dry and I have used an eye cream and mascara remover for about a year. However, before that I wasn't aware of these products and vigorously rubbed the eye makeup off with soap and water. I suspect this may be the reason. Is there any way to repair these tissues or to prevent further lines? I don't have lines or wrinkles, just these crepey lids. Would a vibrator help by bringing blood to the surface? I can't consider plastic surgery.

A. You really shouldn't have crepey lids at your age. It is possible that the rough treatment you gave your upper lids may have stretched the skin and damaged the tissues.

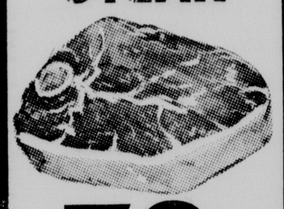

In my opinion a vibrator should definitely not be used around the eyes. Make every effort not to stretch the skin of the lids. Continue using cream or water (depending on the type mascara) or a mascara remover, but be gentle in the application and removal processes. Try not to stretch the skin when putting on the eye cream. Plastic surgery is the only way I know to really remedy this condition.

Exercises for sparkling, clear eyes are outlined in Mrs. Lowman's free leaflet, "Keep Something in Your Eye — Keep Beauty." Send only a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star in requesting this leaflet.

Keep up with real depth reporting on government, state and community affairs in the Capital Section of the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Power Unit Presented 8-Year Proposal For Centralizing LES Facilities

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

An eight-year $3-million phased construction program for centralizing the facilities of the Lincoln Electric System (LES) was presented to the Power Advisory Board Wednesday.

The construction program was included in a report on "A Program of Space Requirements for a Central Service Complex for the LES" drawn up by the architectural-engineering firm of Clark & Enerson and presented by Max Burroughs, project engineer.

The board had requested in February that the phased construction program be included in the study as well as an immediate construction program.

Board members did not take any action on the space requirement study Wednesday.

First Choice

Burroughs said the first choice of a site to house all of the operations — except accounting and management — would be in the vicinity of 9th and K Sts. but mentioned alternative sites.

The LES presently houses its operations in nine separate buildings throughout the city. The board requested the study to see whether long range savings could be made through a centralized facility.

Burroughs said a phased construction program would cost an estimated $3,050,000 as compared to $2,520,000 if built at once. "The difference is in the expected increase of construction costs — approximately 5% a year," he said.

Two-Year Cost

The phased construction program at the consulting firm's proposed site would cost the LES $373,840 during the 1969-71 period.

The remaining construction phases are also split into two-year periods with the project to be finished by 1977.

Burroughs said the alternate sites — located in the vicinity of the Lincoln Industrial Park, the vicinity of 1st to 7th and G to N Sts., and along the eastern edge of the city limits — would cost slightly less than the proposed site but would not be as ideally located.

"The alternative sites will still require the LES to have service crews located at a small satellite operation in the downtown area," he said.

Neal Tyner questioned whether another site could be possible in northeast Lincoln.

Meets Requirements

Burroughs responded that a site in the area would meet the transportation and convenience requirements for such a building.

Board members also heard D. W. Hill, general manager of Consumers Public Power District, discuss a second nuclear power unit that Consumers is considering constructing.

Hill said, "Consumers is thinking of another plant, possibly at the Cooper Nuclear Station site near Brownsville.

"We would like to have your thoughts about your participating in the planning of this unit," he said.

Already Agreed

The city has already agreed to purchase 12.5% of the power generated at the nuclear plant presently being built through paying a like percentage of the total costs to produce power at the plant.

No indication was made by the board whether the city would participate in a second nuclear plant.

Discussion was also held on the negotiations now going on about the service area that LES will have in relation to the service area of the Norris Public Power District.

Pete Baird, manager of the LES, explained three maps he had prepared showing the different proposals under consideration as to possible service areas of the Lincoln Electric system.

Forensic Group Okays Resolution Calling For National King Holiday

A resolution calling for making the day Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated a national holiday was passed unanimously Wednesday by the Student Congress of Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha.

The congress said that the day should be a holiday to "commemorate the man's stand for the rights and freedom of all men."

Also passed by group were resolutions calling for regional grievance committees to deal with campus disorders, improvements in the training procedures of police departments, improvements in the quality of American education and a four-member commission appointed by the President to establish guidelines and examine facts in cases of civil disobedience and disorders.

In connection with the student congress, the sixth annual National Forensic Conference held debates and speaking contests with representatives of 76 colleges participating.

The University of Oregon team placed first in a two-man debate competition in which 49 teams were entered. Jerry Roberts and John Eads were on the team, coached by Scott Nobles.

Other teams that placed were the University of Kentucky, second; University of Denver, third, and St. John's University in New York, fourth.

In the four-man debate, in which 72 teams were entered, Ohio State came out on top. On the team were Mike Sproule, Betty Mathis, Carl Klein and Dean Conley. Harold Lawson was the coach.

Other place winners were Michigan State, second; University of Southern California, third, and Texas Tech, fourth.

Superior ratings in speaking and debate were given to affirmative debaters, Richard Foster and Charles Humphreys, both of Michigan State, King Schofield of the University of Southern California and Ben McCorkle of Texas Tech, and negative debaters, Roger Chard of Michigan State, Paul Stern of the University of Wyoming, Pat Ganer of the University of Southern California and John Klemme of Wayne State in Detroit.

In extemporaneous speaking, superior ratings went to John Eads of the University of Oregon, Clem John of the University of Wyoming, Steve Remsberg of George Washington University and Steve Ybarra of Whittier College.

Superior rating winners in persuasive speaking were Charles Podd of Wabash College, Larry Driver of Western Michigan University, Frank Greco of Wayne State in Detroit and Steve Ybarra.

Prof. Saunderson Of Arizona State To Talk At NWU

Prof. R. T. Saunderson of Arizona State University will serve as speaker at Nebraska Wesleyan University Friday at a 10 a.m. convocation in O'Donnell Auditorium.

He will be available for informal discussion throughout the day.

Dr. Saunderson's research interests include chemical bonding and interpretations of inorganic chemistry. He is well-known for his work on electronegativity and chemical periodicity and the development of some unique chemical models.

CANADIAN WHISKY — A BLEND · 80 PROOF · IMPORTED BY NATIONAL DISTILLERS PRODUCTS CO., NEW YORK

Elegant tradition:
The smoothest whisky ever to come out of Canada!

Tonight serve Windsor Canadian: the remarkable, sippin'-smooth Canadian that's already changing thousands of Americans' ideas on the whisky to serve.

Now compare Windsor! Pour two drinks —highballs or over ice—one with your usual, one with Windsor Canadian. Notice the superior smoothness and the flavor of Windsor.

That's because no other custom-distilled whisky shares these three extraordinary features:

1. Only Windsor Canadian is made from choicest northern prairie grains, bursting with fresh flavor.

2. Only Windsor Canadian is born of icy mountain glacial water drawn pure and clear from underground streams.

3. Only Windsor Canadian is aged in the incredibly dry air of Canada's Rockies. Where, nearly a mile high, it gentles to sippin'-smooth perfection.

Yet it costs no more than leading domestic whiskies, because we import Windsor Canadian, then bottle it here. Thus saving on duties and other charges. Compare the price and the smoothness of Windsor. Once you do, you'll never settle for less or pay more. That's tradition for you!

Center At Pine Ridge Facing Second Threat

Chadron (UPI) — For the second time since its beginning in December of 1965, the Pine Ridge civilian conservation center south of here faces a threat to its existence.

On April 3, the U.S. Department of Labor informed the forestry service that 62% of the 82 conservation centers across the United States would be closed, effective July 1, leaving only 33 in operation.

The first threat to the Pine Ridge facility was in February of last year when the McCook Job Corps was closed. According to Pine Ridge Center director John Pryor, only an admirable performance record at that time prevented the shutdown of the Chadron center.

Tuesday night approximately 25 persons met with the Pine Ridge Community Relations Council to find out what might be done to prevent closing of the center.

Council chairman James McCafferty said a delegation will be sent to Alliance to meet with Rep. Dave Martin Friday. The group will also seek support from individuals in and outside of Chadron.

The Pine Ridge center has 112 corpsmen. It opened Dec. 6, 1965. According to figures from Pryor, the Pine Ridge center has the highest retention rate in the United States with a 95 percentage.

Conflict-Of-Interest Bill Passed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Wednesday enacted major new conflict-of-interest legislation covering officials and employes in the legislative and executive branches of state government, and public power districts.

The bill, LB75, was passed on a 47-1 vote.

Sen. William Wylie of Elgin cast the dissenting vote.

The bill establishes a code of ethics for state senators and legislative employes, directs executive departments to formulate their own codes, and provides for general disclosure of financial interests.

Sen. Rick Budd of Nebraska City, who headed a study committee which considered the subject, guided the proposal through floor debate to enactment.

Disclosure Required

General financial disclosure would be required of all state senators, constitutional officers, members of state boards or commissions, public power district directors and all employes salaried at $6,000 a year, or more.

A Board of Ethics would oversee the executive branch, while a Conflicts of Interest Committee would investigate complaints involving the legislative branch.

Complaints would be kept confidential, unless the board or committee determines that a violation has occurred. Such a finding would be public information.

While the way is open for citizen complaints, the bill provides that any person "who shall knowingly present false information or repeatedly make false charges" would be subject to imprisonment for three to six months.

Could Seek Opinion

Persons covered by the act could seek the opinion of the board or committee before taking any action of doubtful propriety. While the opinion would be advisory, it would stand as a complete defense to any future charge of impropriety involving the action.

Officials or employes could also request an investigation of rumors or allegations involving their own activities.

The disclosure provision requires officers and employes to make public, in general terms, their sources of income, major investments and business interests.

An alternative form of disclosure could be made by filing a copy of the federal income tax return along with a list of major investments.

All 49 members of the Legislature signed the bill.

LB75 will become law upon signature of the governor.

Public Employes Measure Advanced After Changes

By United Press International

A bill setting up collective bargaining procedures for public employes in Nebraska passed its second legislative test Wednesday after being amended again.

The bill, LB15, now must pass one more vote to be sent to the governor and signed into law.

One of the amendments adopted would provide for a secret ballot to determine whether employes wished to be represented by a union and which union they would want. It also would specifically authorize public employers to recognize unions of public employes.

A second amendment would prohibit the state from entering into any labor agreements for a period longer than one biennium, the period for which budgets are adopted.

The bill, as now written, would place all enforcement of it under the Court of Industrial Relations.

Open House Set At Peru April 27

Peru (UPI) — Residents of groups living on the Peru State College campus will host an annual all-college open house April 27.

All academic facilities will be open and all college departments staffed with instructors to answer questions.

Three Tax Measures OK'd

By Associated Press

Three tax measures were among the 12 bills passed on final reading in the Legislature Wednesday.

The tax measures sponsored by Sen Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, would strengthen the role of the tax commissioner in tax law administration.

A 41-5 vote sent to the governor for signature into law Carpenter's LB20, which creates a division of property taxation in the tax commissioner's office and sets out at length how the tax commissioner shall involve himself in property tax assessment at the county level even though the state is not now levying state property taxes. The dissenting votes were cast by Sens. Elvin Adamson of Valentine, Sam Klaver of Omaha, Loran Schmit of David City, Elmer Wallwey of Emerson and Wylie.

The other Carpenter bills transfer certain functions from the State Board of Equalization to the tax commissioner.

Other bills passed on final reading would:

—Increase from 60 to 90 days the driver license renewal period.

—Require the Douglas County public defender and assistants to devote full time to the job.

—Allow the Douglas County Board of Equalization to use referees to hear tax protests.

—Add business and distribution instruction and civic education to subjects which may be taught at state trade schools in Milford and Sidney.

—Stiffen petition requirements for exclusion of counties from educational service units.

Bills passed in the Legislature Wednesday (E-emergency clause):

LB20 (Carpenter) — Creating a division of property taxation in the tax commissioner's office, and delineating the role of the tax commissioner in property tax assessment. (E) 41-5.

LB75 (Budd, Kremer, Reynolds, Harsh, Proud, Burbach, Robinson, Kokes, Warner, Wenzlaff, Kennedy, Carstens, Clark, Adamson, Wylie, Hasebroock, Orme, Swanson, Moulton, Elrod, Mahoney, Simpson, Ziebarth, Craft, Waldo, Skarda, Wiltse, Bloom, Stull, Wallwey, Schmit, Klaver, Batchelder, Danner, Holmquist, Keyes, Luedtke, Marvel, Moylan, Whitney, Duis, Johnson, Nore, Waldron, Knight, Syas, Pedersen, Carpenter, Schreurs) — Establishing a code of ethics for members and employes of Legislature, and providing for regulation of conflicts of interest in legislative and executive branches of government and in public power. (E). 47-1.

LB91 (Clark) — Broadening scope of state vocational technical schools at Milford and Sidney to include instruction in business and distribution, and civic education. 33-12.

LB206 (Budd, Wiltse, Robinson) — Removing a limit on water and sewer district bonds which first class cities may issue, and increasing from 5 to 6% the maximum interest on such bonds. (E) 45-2.

LB215 (Harsh) — Authorizing Omaha and Lincoln school districts to be readmitted to educational service units at their request, changing petition requirements for exclusion of counties from educational service units. (E) 43-1.

LB288 (Budd) — Providing that in cities with commission form of government, councilmen shall be elected to specific council positions. 44-1.

Measure Allowing Cities To Create Business Improvement Districts Held

By The Associated Press

The Legislature's Urban Affairs Committee Wednesday took testimony but deferred action on a bill which would allow cities to create special business improvement and parking districts.

Supporters of the measure, LB918, told the committee the bill would help Nebraska cities keep their decaying downtown business districts alive.

Fremont attorney George Svoboda said the districts would allow for a "self-imposed, permissive tax." He said the tax would probably be occupational and connected to square footage of business property.

Sen. E. Thome Johnson of Fremont, the bill's sponsor, noted that improvements and parking areas in downtown sites might allow Nebraska downtowns to "catch up" with outlying areas.

Representatives of city government and Chambers of Commerce from York, Fremont, Grand Island, Kearney, Norfolk, Hastings and North Platte also appeared in support of the bill.

The committee adjourned without taking action on that bill and five other measures also given public hearing Wednesday.

Sen. Herb Nore's LB846, a bill to allow for countywide levies of up to three mills for flood control, is necessary because "flood problems are everybody's problems," Nore, of Genoa, told the committee.

A similar bill, also sponsored by Nore, had been amended by the Agriculture and Recreation Committee to delete the countywide levy. The committee had substituted a levy for only those areas affected by flooding.

Nore said the bill would facilitate flood control construction, particularly in the area of dike building.

His testimony also provided one of the hearing's rare moments of levity, when — under tongue-in-cheek questioning from the committee — he admitted the bill would also increase federal aid possibilities.

"I want to make it clear, that when federal funds are available, I jump in with all four feet," joked Nore, who in the past has criticized heavy federal aid outlays.

Also held by the committee was a bill which would permit cities and counties to set up airport authorities either jointly or separately, and a bill to raise the interest rates from 5 to 8% on late payments to contractors for sanitary or improvement districts.

Omaha Sen. Richard Proud's LB1185, a measure to raise the interest rates on warrants and bonds issued by such districts, drew some criticism from committee members during the public hearing.

Representatives of the Nebraska and Omaha Homebuilders Associations had contended the measure was vital in view of current market interest rates, but committee member Sen. Herbert Duis noted that the bill might just provide an extra and unnecessary measure of security to financers.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff told the committee that he would withdraw one of his bills, LB1295, scheduled for hearing at the session Wednesday.

The bill would change the appointment of members of the State Civil Service Commission and would base civil service employment upon competitive examinations.

Officials from several Nebraska cities had appeared to testify against the proposal, but waived testimony in light of Carpenter's withdrawal request.

Legislative Bills Introduced

By Associated Press

Bills passed in the Legislature Wednesday (E-emergency clause):

LB20 (Carpenter) — Creating a division of property taxation in the tax commissioner's office and delineating the role of the tax commissioner in property tax assessment. (E) 41-5.

LB75 (All senators) — Establishing a code of ethics for members and employes of Legislature, and providing for regulation of conflicts of interest in legislative and executive branches of government and in public power. (E) 47-1.

LB91 (Clark) — Broadening scope of state vocational technical schools at Milford and Sidney to include instruction in business and distribution, and civic education. 33-12.

LB206 (Budd, Wiltse, Robinson) — Removing a limit on water and sewer district bonds which First Class cities may issue, and increasing from 5 to 6% the maximum interest on such bonds. (E). 45-2.

LB215 (Harsh) — Authorizing Omaha and Lincoln school districts to be readmitted to educational service units at their request, changing petition requirements for exclusion of counties from educational service units. (E) 43-1.

LB288 (Budd) — Providing that in cities with commission form of government, councilmen shall be elected to specific council positions. 44-1.

LB305 (Elrod) — Increasing from 60 to 90 days the renewal period for driver licenses, and extending to spouses of military personnel the privilege of license renewal without examination if application is made within 60 days of discharge. (E) 46-0.

Regents Remap Queried

By United Press International

A bill pending in the Legislature to redistrict the University of Nebraska Board of Regents districts to provide for eight regents may be unconstitutional, the Unicameral was told Wednesdday.

The bill is designed to implement a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last November which allows the Legislature to increase the number of regents from six to eight and to redraw the districts from which they are elected.

During a brief debate on an amendment to revise the way the districts are set up in the bill, State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said the Legislature should make sure the districts comply with the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man-one vote ruling.

The high court expanded its ruling Monday by saying election districts should be laid out so that the number of persons in each district would provide for "precise mathematical equality."

The amendment, which was adopted by the Unicameral, would provide for a difference of 19,000 persons between the largest and smallest district.

The bill's chief sponsor, State Sen. George Sysas, said the bill he drew up provided for mathematical equality between the districts based on the 1960 federal census.

He said the bill, in its present form, would probably be ruled unconstitutional if it were challenged in a lawsuit.

The bill, which was scheduled for its initial vote by the Unicameral Wednesday, was laid over until a legal opinion could be received on whether the bill would be able to stand a test of constitutionality.

Glittering Las Vegas never closes. Walk out in the warm desert night, and in five minutes (or less) you can get a thousand dollar bet on a dice table. Get married. Or get a hot pastrami sandwich equal to any in Manhattan.

The go-for-broke gamblers are 45,000 couples a year who come to wed.

Wedding chapels line The Strip. "The Hitching Post" offers music and candlelight ceremonies. Optional services are color wedding photos and flowers. Recordings and free transportation.

All offer a package deal including selling you the ring. Some have an adjoining motel, Like the casino gaming rooms, the wedding chapels stay open 24 hours a day.

You never know when Cupid will strike. The emergency ward is always ready.

☆ ☆ ☆

By daylight, Las Vegas is a bleak windswept town. A few cottonwoods struggle against the desert sun in the older part. (It was a Mormon settlement.)

Acres of sand and sagebrush fall between rising skyscraper hotels. All land worth millions of dollars and much of it owned by mysterious Howard Hughes.

From the town and The Strip, the desert stretches to the bare mountain range shimmering in the heat. The approaches to Las Vegas show man's throwaway wealth: Splendid highways bordered with beer cans; a few junkyards of rusting smashed cars.

A hundred billboards advise you where to stay and offer "the most jackpots in Nevada."

It is a dreary approach and unattractive.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Cinderella change comes at sunset. Desert and mountains turn rose in the dying sun. The daylight faded-denim sky takes on a deep blue.

The Casino lights come on. Acres of neon. "Direct From Paris! The Greatest Show in Las Vegas!" "Jackpots! Jackpots! Jackpots!"

Fountains spray the night with curtains of water.

Taxis rush up and down The Strip. (Las Vegas must have the highest taxi fares in the world.)

Music and the clatter of slot machines spill into the warm desert night. And you can hear the cry of the dealer: "Eight's the point! Who wants it the hard way?"

Whereaway now the desert capital? "Our big problems is help," a hotel man tells me. "I mean good help. I call the union for a waiter, and they haven't got any. Or they send me some stumblebum you couldn't use as a banquet waiter.

"Within a couple of months we'll have four new hotels. Hughes will open the Landmark. And Kerkorian's International—3,000 rooms!—should open by August.

"We are going to have 5,000 new jobs! And where will we get the people?"

"Do you raid each other?" I asked.

"You bet we do," he said. "But that's not the answer."

☆ ☆ ☆

Rents are high. "It's cheaper to build than rent." It's not an attractive living town. "Do you know we have smog already? You wouldn't believe that, would you?"

But the money is good.

"This is a toke town—a tipping town," said the hotel man. "With us every night is Saturday night. I mean in New York the waiter makes his big tips on the weekend. Here he makes it every day.

"Even the dealers make it with tokes. A man wins a hundred at the dice table. He usually slips the dealer a $5 chip."

☆ ☆ ☆

Tips are cash. Income tax is a matter of conscience. Gambling income was reported in 1967 as $214 million. This is hard to check, too. It is strictly cash. There are no sales slips. No inventory. No cash register receipts.

No record of wins. No record of losses.

Marriages are recorded. The whole deal is a bargain $20.

OPPD Sale Procedure Bill 'Could Mean Rate Drop'

A bill spelling out the procedures by which a municipality in the Omaha Public Power District may buy its distribution system could mean a rate reduction for Consumers, the Legislature's Public Works Committee was told Wednesday.

Present law contains ambiguities which cause bond buyers to impose steeper interest rates on OPPD, Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha said.

The present statute "says a town can take over the distribution system for free by 1972," OPPD attorney Hird Stryker said, and buyers interpret purchases of OPPD bonds as "dangerous."

At issue was Sen. Proud's LB901. The committee adjourned without taking action on the measure.

An attorney for Consumers Public Power District, Richard Wilson, testified the bill is discriminatory legislation of "doubtful constitutionality."

The measure refers only to power districts formed after May 4, 1945, which involves only OPPD, Wilson said.

If the date were removed, applying the measure to all districts, Wilson said, Consumers would not support it "because Consumers already has told its cities that when bonds are paid off, they can have the distribution system for nothing."

Consumers has an agreement with the municipalities it serves that the district will operate the distribution systems and give the cities 7% of the proceeds, providing the cities agree to buy power from consumers for the next 25 years.

Wilson said the pending bill would require the cities in OPPD to pay for a proportionate share of the bonds the OPPD ever issued.

Stryker maintained the bill "presents a fair, logical method for cities to take over the distributions systems and protect the bond holders."

Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter told the committee, via its chairman Sen. Rick Budd of Nebraska City, that he wants to withdraw his LB99 which had been slated for public hearing Wednesday also.

The bill would require power districts to divest themselves of their distribution systems by 1972.

Motor Vehicle Dept. Reports 40,449 Accidents In '68

A total 40,449 traffic accidents involving at least $100 damage to one vehicle were reported in Nebraska last year, the State Motor Vehicles Department reported.

The department's annual report said a total 451 persons died in 371 of the accidents and another 18,478 were injured in another 11,938 of the accidents.

The most dangerous time to be on roads in the state was from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. This two-hour period accounted for 6,820 of the accidents. The safest time was from 4 a.m. to 6 a.m. when 545 accidents were reported.

Saturday was the day on which more accidents occurred than any other, with 7,190 reported and Wednesday had the fewest — 5,101.

Education Department Mails $10.5 Million In State Aid

The State Department of Education reported Wednesday $10.5 million has been mailed to local school districts as the second half distribution of state aid to education.

Being withheld is $2.5 million, pending the outcome of two court suits.

A sum of $1.5 million is being sought by the Omaha school district in Lancaster District Court, and another $1 milion is being reserved because of federal court litigation brought by the Bellevue and Papillion school districts.

Just over $12 million was distributed in December as the first half payment of the $25 million appropriated by the Legislature to support the 1967 aid act.

There are 1,681 districts which have received two payments so far.

A list of several school districts, showing their state aid allotment in December followed by the second half distribution this month:

4 More Towns Get Snow Funds

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann said he has approved four more applications for state assistance to local government to help defray the cost of snow removal during the past winter.

The funds were made available to local governments on a 90-10 matching basis by the Legislature.

The four towns whose applications were approved were Albion in Boone County, $3,081.38; Brainard in Butler County, $632.03; Dixon in Dixon County, $297.57; and Newman Grove in Madison County, $721.31.

M. Mauer Elected By School Unit

Marvin Mauer, assistant superintendent for business affairs in the Grand Island Public Schools, Wednesday was elected president of the Nebraska Association of School Business Officials.

Mauer will succeed James Douthit of Beatrice in the position.

Elected president-elect was Martin Dunklau, assistant superintendent in the Westside Public Schools. He will also serve as vice president.

Ed Wergin, also of Westside, will continue as secretary-treasurer of the organization which concluded its annual meeting here Wednesday.

Keynoting the two-day convention, attended by some 80 business officials of Nebraska schools, was John T. Lucas, assistant superintendent in charge of business of the Kettering, Ohio, city schools.

Lucas discussed the changing conditions of schools and reported problems in other districts related to teacher negotiations and student confrontations.

Lucas recommended that school superintendents and business affairs officials stay out of negotiations with teachers because animosity that might develop between negotiators for school boards and teachers may hinder operation of the schools.

School boards should hire professional negotiators and attorneys who are completely familiar with labor laws, according to the Ohio school official.

300 Commitment Cards Received From Teachers

More than 300 commitment cards indicating that the certificated personnel of the Lincoln school district intend to return next year have been received by the personnel office, Personnel Director Dr. Carroll Sawin reported Wednesday.

Commitment cards from the district's 1,500 teachers and administrators are due April 15 or the district assumes that the professional staff members are rejecting a contract for the 1969-70 school year.

The Lincoln Education Association had urged its membership of teachers and administrators to withhold the commitment cards until Thursday "as a gesture of unity."

Sawin said he has not been aware that the cards are being returned slower than usual although he has no records about previous years.

Normally, most of the commitment cards are forwarded to the personnel office soon after the spring vacation, he said.

Teachers and students returned to classes from a spring break Wednesday.

Janice Burton Fund Near $8,000

The fund for Janice Burton, a 19-year-old Lincoln girl, reached $7,816 Wednesday, according to Women in Community Service (WICS).

WICS must raise at least $18,000 for the fund before corrective surgery can be scheduled for Miss Burton at the University of Minnesota Hospital.

Mrs. Roper Presented Optimists' Law Award

Mrs. Hulda Roper, Lincoln police woman, was presented the Optimist International Law Enforcement Award by the Sunrise Optimist Club Wednesday evening in connection with its Respect for Law Program.

In making the presentation, President Clyde Laymon expressed the appreciation of the citizens of Lincoln to Mrs. Roper for doing her duties as a police officer since 1944 with "fairmindedness, concern for the underprivileged, neglected and minority groups."

She was also cited for her juvenile welfare work, in which she worked for the founding of a juvenile court and was the prime force in founding Cedars Home so that children would not need to be sent to the detention home.

MRS. ROPER

Honored By Club

The award also noted her counseling of neglected children and their parents, her counseling and directing of alcoholics and their families and her assistance in bringing about improvements in nursing and boarding home standards through an investigation of unsatisfactory conditions.

The Sunrise Optimist Club said that Mrs. Roper's activities "both in line of duty and the many activities outside duty have helped to build respect for law in Lincoln."

Library Board Pledges Action If Bonds Okayed

The Lincoln City Library Board Wednesday adopted a resolution indicating that the two branch libraries proposed in the May 6 library bond issue will be built as soon as possible if the issue passes.

The two libraries will be in the northeast and southeast sections of Lincoln.

The board earlier in the year had said the northeast branch would be built after the southeast library is completed.

Chairman Jack Hart pointed out after the meeting that immediate construction would cut down on costs.

He said that if the bond issue fails the northeast library will have to wait several years before being built.

No definite sites have been selected yet for either library although the board is conferring with various people as to the best possible sites.

The "Liberator," first anti-slavery newspaper in America, was founded by William Lloyd Garrison in Boston in 1831.

'Nothing Settled' At Strike Talks

The construction strike picture changed little Wednesday as officials reported "nothing settled" during a meeting between carpenters union representatives and the Building and Construction Employers Association (BCEA).

Carpenters had agreed to continue working after their contract expired April 1, but recent negotiations have resulted in a stand-off because of disagreement over wages.

BCEA President John Miller said that another meeting would be held with the carpenters — one of eight craft unions participating in a picketless strike.

Miller also said a meeting was slated for Monday with the bricklayers union and that a conference would be held with plasterers Thursday.

Other striking unions are those of painters, lathers, laborers, cement finishers and operating engineers.

Sheet metal workers and roofers are also involved in contract disputes, but their negotiations are made with contractor associations other than the BCEA.

There was little activity at construction sites in Lincoln Wednesday, although a few workers did show up.

Richard Snook, president of the Lincoln Building and Construction Trades Council previously estimated that about 1,500 workers would be affected by the strike.

Russell L. Koos To Join Faculty At Wesleyan U

Russell L. Koos, a research mathematician at the U.S. Naval Weapons Laboratory in Dahlgreen, Va., will join Nebraska Wesleyan University this fall as assistant professor of mathematics.

Koos, a native of Chicago, earned his bachelor's degree at DePauw University and his master's and doctor's degrees at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

He served as an assistant instructor and instructor at Missouri and held a NASA traineeship while earning his advance degrees.

NORMAL BLVD. TO BE CLOSED

Normal Blvd. from 33rd to South Street will be closed from 7 a.m. Monday through Wednesday for resurfacing, according to the traffic engineer's office.

South Street from 33rd to Normal Blvd. will close at 7 a.m. April 17 and remain closed nine weeks for reconstruction, the office said.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS
1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

Lagoon Said Unsuitable For Industrial Wastes

The City Water Advisory Board Wednesday said the city's sewage lagoon is not suitable for treatment of industrial wastes.

The lagoon is located near the confluence of the Salt Creek and Stevens Creek northeast of Lincoln.

Board Chairman Mark Hammer said industrial wastes should be disposed of by a sewage treatment plant located as far out of Lincoln as possible.

Hammer said a mechanical treatment plant could possibly be located downstream from the industrial tract in the Stevens Creek area. He said such a plant could provide joint treatment of industrial and domestic wastes.

The board took action by adopting a resolution directed to the City Council and calling for a supplement to the recent sewage treatment facilities report made by a consulting engineering firm, Black & Veatch of Kansas City, Mo.

The resolution included a suggestion made by Hammer last month that the firm study the possibility of locating a treatment plant north of Interstate 80.

The new plant would handle the excess from the Theresa Street treatment plant, including the industrial wastes and other wastes in the Stevens Creek drainage area.

Improve Lagoon

The Black & Veatch report recommended making improvements to the sewage lagoon to handle the increased loading anticipated by industrial expansion and suggested the possibility of locating a treatment plant near the lagoon.

iczcee

The resolution to the City Council also indicated that the supplemental report study the total sewage treatment needs to the year 2020.

It also suggested the possibility of modifying the Theresa Street plant to discharge only fully treated matter and divert raw or partly treated sewage to a new plant for final treatment, so that further expansion of the present plant could be avoided.

Not Inadequate

Members indicated the request for a supplement was not a sign that the present report is inadequate.

"We plan to use most of the data in the report," Lee Blocker, public utilities director, said.

A second resolution suggested the city employ a qualified sanitary engineer and supporting technicians with chief duties of taking waste water surveys that would lead to the regulation of sewer use through codes.

In other action, sewage treatment plant Superintendent Sayles Thomsen and superintendent of water and power production Ed Walter urged increased pay for water, sewage and power plant employes.

Recruiting Difficult

Both said it is difficult to recruit and retain employes at present wages.

Board member Paul Amen questioned whether it is the board's function to make recommendations on salary matters.

The board then decided to ask the mayor and City Council to define the scope of the board's powers in budgeting and long-range planning.

Regency Baptist Committee To Study Construction Plans

A committee to study construction plans and meet with architects was appointed by the congregation of Regency Baptist Church Wednesday night as the group held its first annual business meeting.

The congregation, which first met in Lincoln late in 1967 and officially organized last November, hopes to begin construction on a church this summer.

It has already purchased land on the northeast corner of 77th and A Streets. At present, members hold services at a Seventh-Day Adventist Church at 73rd and Lexington.

An advisory board was appointed to work out a budget for the church.

Tentative plans were also made regarding the Faith at Work Crusade the congregation will hold from Oct. 17 through 22 in cooperation with the Crusade of the Americas, a Baptist group. Members expect to hold the crusade in its new building.

In other business, the congregation approved a church constitution and bylaws.

Officers of the congregation are the Rev. Thomas Kramer, moderator; Jack Powell, vice moderator and head usher; Lois Kramer, clerk; Chester Stobel and Powell, board of deacons; Darrell Shipman, Charles Rice and Strobel, board of trustees, and Sharon and Pearl Powell and Mrs. Kramer, board of Christian education.

Red China Said Facing Reaction By Warsaw Pact

Vienna, Austria (AP) — Foreign Minister Ivan Bashev of Bulgaria said Wednesday if the Chinese-Soviet border dispute becomes "a danger to te socialist (Communist) camp," East European countries might take military action against China.

Bashev made the statement in Sofia while being questioned about the Soviet-led military intervention in Czechoslovakia at a news conference for Austrian newsmen. Bulgarian troops took part in the actionagainst Czechoslovakia.

"Should developments like those in Czechoslovakia take place in another country of the Warsaw Pact, the organization would react in the same way," the Austrian Press Agency quoted Bashev as saying.

"Such joint action is also possible should the border incidents between the Soviet Union and China lead to being a danger for the socialist camp."

The Austrian newsmen went to Bulgaria in advance of a visit to Austria by the Bulgarian premier and Communist Party chief, Todor Zhivkov next month.

Motorist Stopped By Officer Backs Over Motorcycle

Lincoln police said Wednesday a 63-year-old man backed his car over a police motorcycle after the officer stopped him to check his driver's license.

Harold Skiles, 2920 No. 56th, was stopped by Officer Wilfred Wichman on 16th between J and H for a "standard license check" and accidentally shoved his car in reverse and backed over Wickman's motorcycle left parked at the rear of Skiles' car.

Police said the damage to Wichman's motorcycle was "slight" but the motorcycle would be out of operation for "about a week."

Soviets Launch Cosmos Vehicle

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviets Wednesday launched an unmanned satellite for space research.

Cosmos 278, third Cosmos launched this month, appeared to be of a type often used by the Soviets and usually brought down with its pay load in about one week.

Glue, Not Sex, Attracts Bugs

Auckland (AP) — Seduction failed for New Zealand scientists seeking a way to get rid of the pasture-devouring grassgrub beetle.

They glued some dead females to leaves and, as expected, male beetles arrived in droves. But the scientists found it was not the sex but the glue that attracted the males.

Now they're working on ways to make use of that discovery.

Trivandrum, India (AP) — The speaker of the Kerala State Assembly ruled that Communist delegate K.P.R. Gopalan would be allowed to go on sleeping through a legislative session as long as he did not snore.

Three Bodies Found

Dottikon, Switzerland (UPI) — Police said rescuers had found three more bodies in the ruins of an explosives factory here, raising to at least 12 the toll of dead in the blast that wrecked the plant.

Danner: Governor For Rights Bill

A pending bill authorizing the city of Omaha to enact non-discrimination ordinances has the support of Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, the bill's sponsor, Sen. Edward R. Danner reported Wednesday.

Danner said he had been authorized by Tiemann to announce that the governor "is in full agreement" with LB1033.

"He has pledged his support and he, or a representative from his office, will testify in behalf of LB1033 at the public hearing" scheduled Thursday afternoon, Danner said.

Lincoln Muny Court Moves To New County-City Building

Lincoln's Municipal Court shifted most of its facilities to the new County-City Building Wednesday afternoon.

Don Cullen, clerk of the court, said the move was officially scheduled for Thursday and Friday, but that the movers showed up a day early and "we were ready to move."

Cullen said there will be no regular court sessions until Monday, although the court will be open for filings.

The regular 9 a.m. arraignment session will be held in the old courtroom until jail facilities are transferred to the new building.

The Lincoln Police Department has set a tentative moving date of April 15. Their transfer to new quarters awaits the completion of kitchen facilities for the jail.

The date for complete police operation in the new building is tentatively set for May 1.

Pioneer Has Low Bid For Street Work

Pioneer Paving Co. of Lincoln was the apparent low bidder Wednesday for the city's spring resurfacing project.

The construction firm bid $343,750 for completely resurfacing streets which had been either scheduled for resurfacing or had been severely marred by chuckholes during the hard winter.

Also bidding on the street resurfacing was Dobson Bros. Const. Co., also of Lincoln, at $346,350.

ABC Electric Co. of Lincoln was the apparent low bidder for an overhead lighting revision at the municipal ballfield. The bid was $8,995.

Commonwealth Electric Co. had bid $9,700 and Energy Enterprises, both of Lincoln, had bid $10,180 on the lighting revision project.

Others bids involved the Lincoln Electric System.

On the proposed electrical substation at 56th and Q Sts., George Cook Construction Co. of Lincoln was the apparent low bidder for masonry fencing around the substation at $84,712 and ABC Electric Co. was the apparent low bidder on electrical items at $51,000.

RTE Corp. of Waukesha, Wis. was the apparent low bidder on seven transformers at $15,750 and Gray Bar Electric Co. of Omaha was the apparent low bidder at $11,000 for spacer cable for the electric system.

Sewer Bond Won By 150-Vote Edge

Omaha (AP) — The official canvass of the April 1 election showed Wednesday that the $3 million sewer bond issue carried by a 150 vote margin, Election Commissioner Monte Taylor said.

The sewer bond issue passed by 32,814 to 32,664.

The issue trailed by 57 votes when first unofficial returns were counted. However, the counting of absentee and disabled voter ballots placed the issue ahead.

Universal, Inland Report Surplus At All-Time High

The combined policyholders surplus at Universal Surety Co. and Inland Insurance Co. during 1968 reached an all-time high of $7,242,000, an increase of almost 18% over 1967.

The report came at the joint stockholders meeting of the two groups Wednesday.

According to President Gene H. Tallman, underwriting results in 1968 reflected Nebraska's worst fire year in history. Claims paid by both companies totaled $1.2 million, but were offset by substantial gains made in the market values of investment securities.

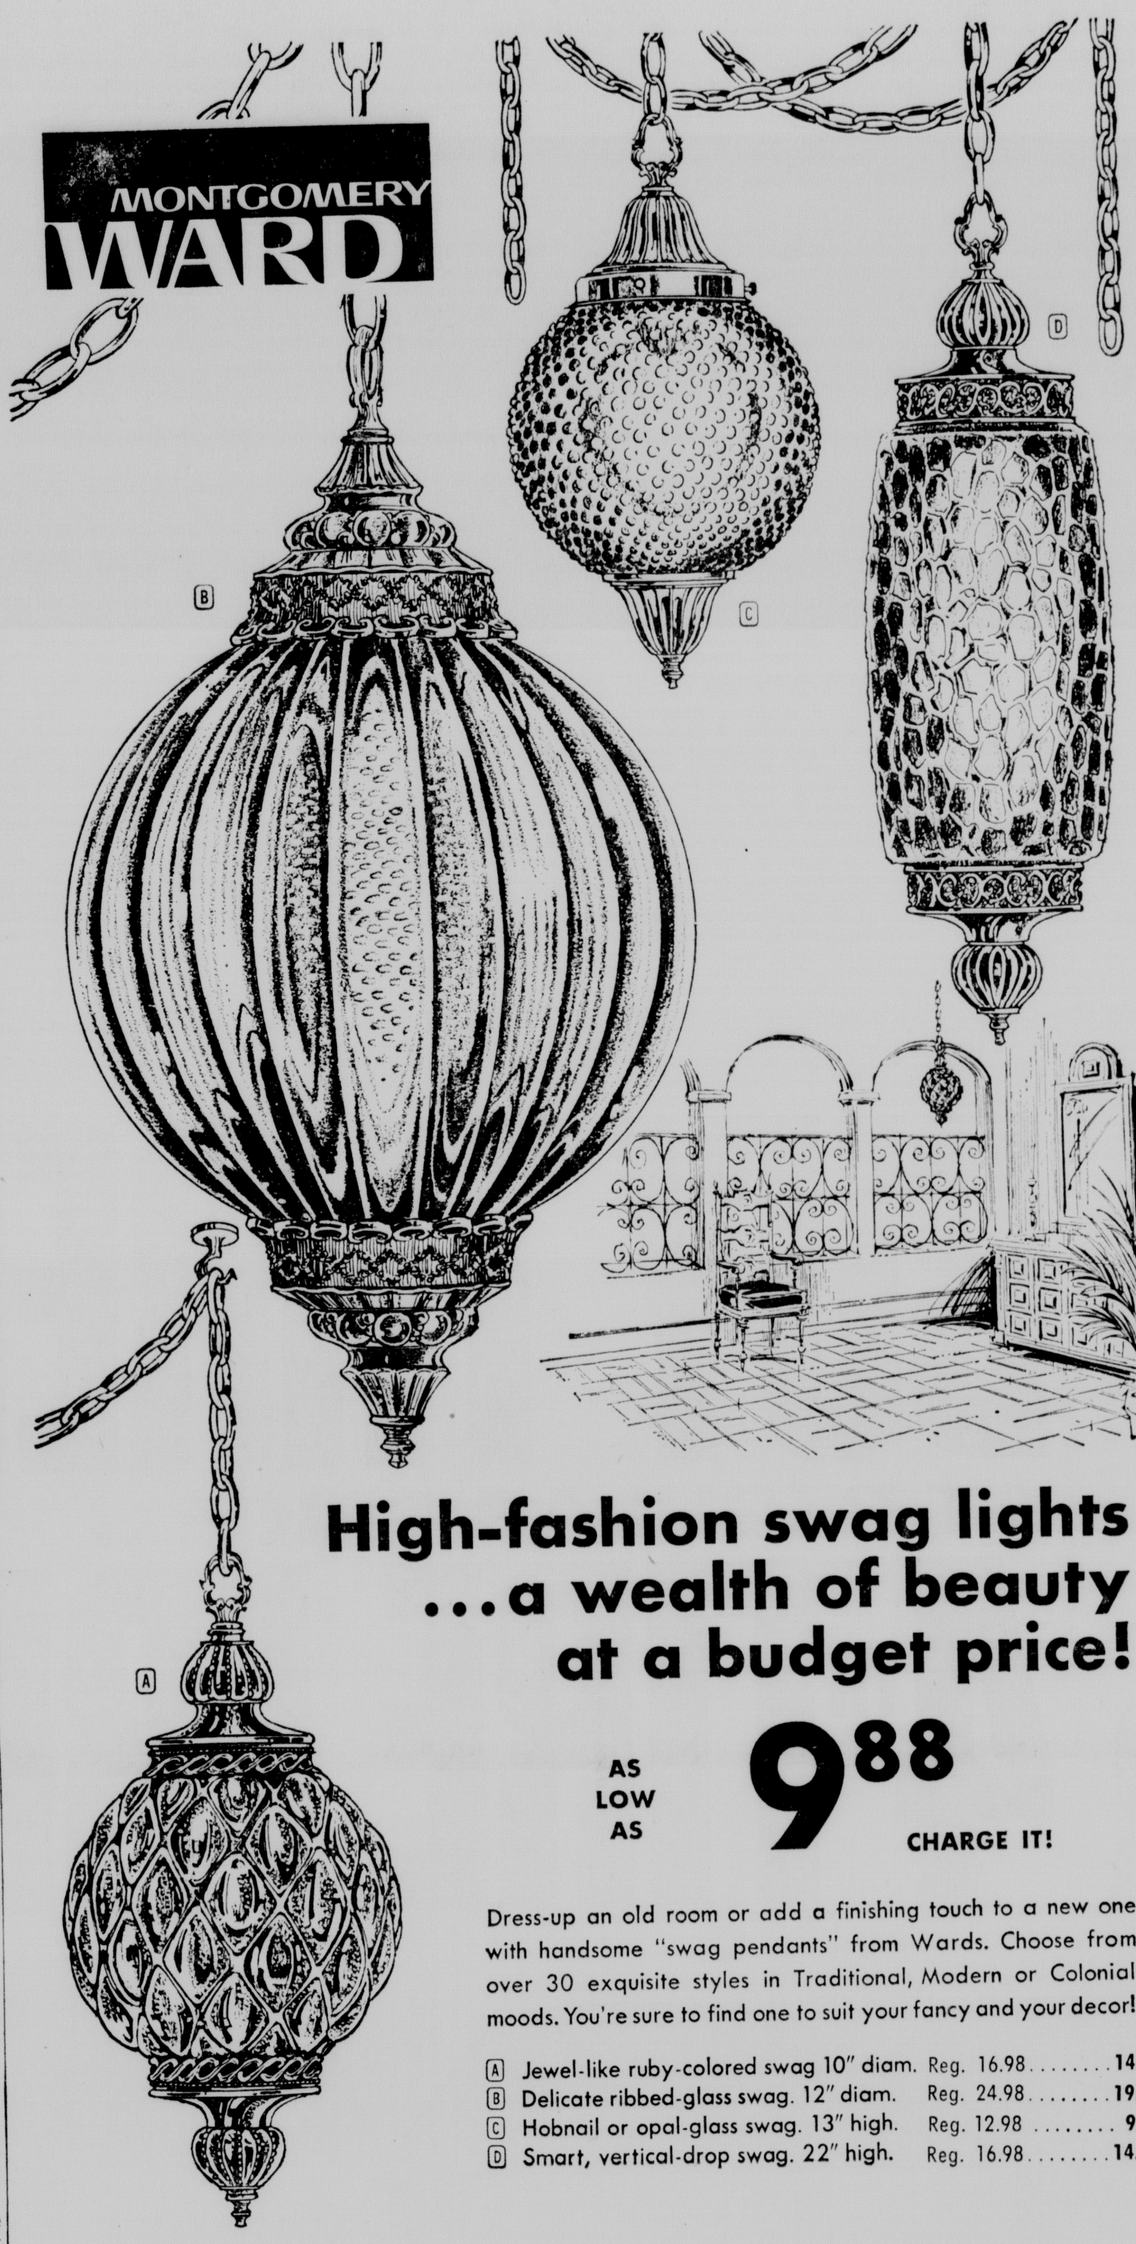

Combined assets increased to $8,749,000, a 12% jump from 1967 and another record.

Officers re-elected were Talman, president; Fred N. Bettge, vice president and controller; James W. Hewitt, vice president and general counsel; C. W. Hansen, secretary and treasurer; W. H. Bennett, assistant vice president of surety and fidelity department; Celia Tomaszewski, assistant vice president of surety and fidelity department, and Keith R. Rokke, assistant vice president of the claims department.

Re-elected to the board of directors were George P. Abel, E. J. Faulkner, Hansen, Hewitt, Bettge and Tallman.

Poll: Deepest Revolt May Be Among Taxpayers

By LOUIS HARRIS

In a day when the visible protests across America appear to be centered on college campuses and among black militants, perhaps the deepest revolt is among the taxpayers of the land.

Long before he assumed office, the American people did not expect President Nixon to bring them much in the way of tax relief. When asked directly, the people predicted by 52% to 27% that Nixon "would not repeal the 10% surcharge tax" passed during the last year of the Johnson administration.

Yet by nearly 3 to 1, the latest Harris Survey shows the public favors letting the surcharge expire this June. Even more startling is the fact that 51% of the American people think the country would be "better off or no worse than it is" if there were a 20% "across-the-board" reduction in federal taxes.

See No Relation

Central to the tax revolt is that the rank and file of the American people do not see any relationship between controlling inflation and paying higher taxes. Most economists view higher taxes as a primary way in which to take money out of circulation and to ease the price spiral. The public looks at it just the opposite way.

LOUIS HARRIS

Relief Not Expected

Most people feel hard-pressed by a higher cost of living. They would like inflation kept under control. But they tend to put higher taxes in the same category as higher food, medical, transportation, and other bills.

In other words, taxes are widely believed to be the bite which is breaking the consumer's pocketbook these days, rather than as a step which will alleviate inflation.

A majority of the public has consistently favored a system of wage and price controls instead of higher taxation. But neither the Nixon nor Johnson administration has taken such price-wage freezes as a serious answer. The reason: the economy has grown and prospered without an administered price-wage system and the private sector will not abide such continuing controls. Politically, the leaders of both industry and labor have been opposed to such direct price-wage controls.

Lingering in the back of many people's minds these days is the additional feeling that the present tax system has many inequities in it. These range from a rather widespread suspicion that wealthier people and corporations find ways to avoid tax payments, while the little taxpayer is carrying an "unbearable burden."

Yet many economists seriously question just how much of the total tax problem will be relieved by the closing of many of the purported loop-holes. Eliminating the inequities might well make people feel better temporarily, but it likely would not substantially reduce the size of the taxes people will pay.

The heart of the crisis is the continuing inability of the rank and file of the public in this country to accept the fact that taxes must remain relatively high if government programs at all levels are going to be supported. Education and health are the sacred cows for governmental programs today. Nearly any reasonable program of expenditure in these areas will meet with public support.

But other areas are not so sacred by any means anymore. Among these are defense spending, including the proposed ABM Safeguard missile system, the anti-poverty and welfare programs, and highways. When confronted with whether to cut these programs or continue them, a cross-section of the public recently told the Harris Survey that they wanted them continued.

Cuts Favored

By the same token, however, when asked if they would spend more money on these programs, the public expressed a resounding "No." Cuts in defense, welfare, anti-poverty, and highway spending will be viewed as welcome by most Americans.

The two top candidates for heavy cuts in spending are the space program and the war in Vietnam. Pressures can be expected to mount for cutbacks in both areas in the months ahead. It is not nearly so much that the American people want to pull out of Vietnam or do not admire the exploits of the astronauts in outer space. Rather it is a question of the tax bite being felt so keenly that relief has to be found somewhere.

Perhaps the essence of the matter is that for quite a long period of time now, beginning back in the Eisenhower administration and continuing through the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, national leadership has failed to educate the public to the necessity to pay higher taxes to finance programs in the national interest. In many ways, issues such as the national security, the race question, the plight of the cities, and the transportation system all involve the country's well-being more than that of any one individual. By contrast, people feel they can directly share in the benefits of education and health programs.

It is ironic that the people most able to pay find the tax bite least objectionable. The sectors in open revolt are those who have benefited the most from the redistribution of the nation's wealth through the system of taxation: the lower and lower middle-income brackets.

Event Slated By Teachers College At NU

The University of Nebraska Teachers College in Lincoln is planning a special centennial observance next week featuring an exhibition entitled "Progress '69."

"Progress '69" is designed to illustrate graphically and by demonstration the ways the Teachers College is making contributions to Nebraska.

The exhibition is being set up in conjunction with a three-day Teachers College Centennial Conference April 17-19 featuring guest speakers throughout the nation.

"Progress '69," composed of 52 panels depicting 20 different Teachers College subject areas or activities plus television cameras and recording equipment, will be set up in the University High School Gymnasium. The exhibit will be open to the public as follows: April 17, 4 to 7:30 p.m., April 18, 3 to 6 p.m. and April 19, 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Both undergraduate and graduate programs in education will be explained through a series of panels.

A television area will permit any visitor to be videotaped and see himself by video tape replay.

Nicklaus Thinks 'Old Guard' Will Dominate Masters

Augusta, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus likes the old guard over the young Turks in the 33rd Masters golf tournament, starting today, and he hints it might be unwise to overlook the man they call the Golden Bear.

"If I didn't think I could win here, I would go home right now," said the 200-pound slugger from Columbus, Ohio, the 10-1 favorite in a wide open international field of 83 players.

"I am hitting the ball better and feeling more confident than I have in any Masters since 1965."

That was the year Big Jack won the third of his green coats and set the scoring record of 271, provoking the great Bob Jones to remark that "this fellow plays a game with which I am not familiar."

Big Jack said he believed the pressure in this first of the season's major championships and course knowledge would give the established players an edge over the precocious new breed.

The odds-makers apparently agree.

Nicklaus is 10-1 in the unofficial pre-tournament book, the longest odds given a favorite in years. He is followed at 12-1 by Gene Littler, the year's leading money winner; Bill Casper and Arnold Palmer.

PGA champion Julius Boros is rated 15-1 along with Gary Player of South Africa and Roberto DeVicenzo of Argentina, with U.S. open champion Lee Trevino, Miller Barber, Tom Weiskopf and Bob Murphy following at 20-1.

Asked how many players he figured he had to beat to win, the wisecracking Trevino asked curtly:

"How many in the field?"

"Eighty-three," someone replied.

"I have to beat 82," Trevino said

"I'm the kind of guy who needs a lot of practice," he added. "I jammed my thumb at Miami a couple of weeks ago. I haven't been able to play enough since."

Ken Still, dark-horse winner of the Citrus Open at Orlando, Fla., this spring, represented the sentiment of most of the outsiders when he said:

"If Nicklaus keeps driving the ball the way he is now, he'll eat everybody's lunch."

Palmer, who won the first of his four crowns in 1958 and the last in 1964, is geared for a comeback.

"I am hopeful. My sore hip hasn't hurt me much. I'm playing the best I have in 12 months."

Many observers believe this may be the year for a foreigner to take the title for the second time. Player, who beat out Palmer in 1961, is at his peak. DeVicenzo, who lost a chance for a tie a year ago through an arithmetic error, and Bruce Crampton of Australia both are playing well.

The first round begins over the flowering 6,980-yard Augusta course at 8 a.m., CST, with Fred McLeod and Jock Hutchinson, two champions of the past, teeing off as honorary starters.

One of the best early pairings has Casper and DeVicenzo teeing off at 10:13 a.m. Palmer plays with national amateur champion Bruce Fleisher at 10:41 a.m., Nicklaus with amateur Marvin Giles of Charlottesville, Va., at 11:23, and Sam Snead with Irish amateur Joe Carr at 8:49 a.m.

Bob Goalby, who won the crown in 1968, goes with Britain's amateur, Mike Bonallack at 12:12 p.m., and Player with Trevino at 12:47 p.m.

The final two rounds wil be televised nationally by NBC, 4-5 p.m. Saturday and 3-4:30 p.m. Sunday.

DOUBLE BARRAGE PACES CUBS

Mets Stymie Montreal, 9-5; Phils Blitzed, 11-3

. . . WILLIAMS TIES DOUBLE MARK

ALMOST . . . Mets' Jerry Grote dives back to first ahead of the tag by Montreal Expos' Bob Bailey in a pickoff attempt by Expos pitcher Steve Shea.

By Associated Press

The Chicago Cubs banged seven doubles, including a record-tying four by Billy Williams, to back Bill Hands' seven-hit pitching for an 11-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday.

Williams, whose fourth double came in a wild seven-run Cub seventh, matched a major league record shared by 29 players and last tied in 1963 by Detroit's Billy Bruton.

Four doubles came as 11 batters faced relievers Gary Wagner and Luis Peraza in the big Chicago seventh.

The Cubs broke a 2-2 tie with an unearned pair in the fourth on first baseman Richie Allen's high throw over second.

The gates were opened in the seventh when Wagner, who took over from starter Rick Wise to start the sixth, pegged high over first base on an attempted sacrifice bunt.

However, Wagner's miscue only produced one tainted run as six of the next seven batters slammed hits.

The Phils got a pair in the fourth when Larry Hisle was hit by a pitched ball and Ron Stone tripled and scored when Glenn Beckert overthrew third.

Tommy John, Chicago White Sox southpaw, became the first pitcher to hurl a shutout in the major leagues this season by blanking Oakland 3-0.

John turned in a four-hitter, including three singles in the seventh, as he backed up the hitting of rookie Carlos May. May hit two homers and drove in all of the White Sox runs.

Oakland's three singles in the seventh came with two out and filled the bases. John then threw out Rick Monday to end the A's only threat.

The New York Mets scored four runs in the first inning and went on to defeat Montreal 9-5 in the other day game.

The Expos knocked out Mets starter Jim McAndrew in the second inning, but were stopped by relievers Tug McGraw and Nolan Ryan.

Cleveland, Detroit, Baltimore and Boston were not scheduled.

Ted Williams gained his first victory as manager of the Senators when Washington whipped the New York Yankees 6-4. Two-run homers by Paul Casanova and Frank Howard helped the Senators overcome an early 3-0 Yankee lead.

Atlanta made it three in a row over San Francisco as Milt Pappas, with relief help from Cecil Upshaw, downed the Giants 4-1.

Pittsburgh again beat St. Louis 6-1, behind Bob Veale's six-hitter and Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 3-1 on Bobby Tolan's two-run homer in the seventh.

NU Cinder Team Wins Triangular

Tempe, Ariz. (AP) — Nebraska's touring track and field forces were beaten in the battle for blue ribbons Wednesday, but their depth paid off in a triangular meet victory over Arizona State and Northern Arizona University.

The Cornhuskers scored eight first places, to nine for second place Arizona State, but picked up 13 second places to score 95 points. The host Sun Devils had 65, and Northern Arizona 17.

Wednesday Nebraska swept the 440 and 880 runs and finished 1-2 in the long jump and intermediate hurdles.

Top performances, however, went to the second place Devils as Olympian Mark Murro heaved the javelin 265-7. Jerry Jobski, one of the nation's leading two-milers, recorded a personal best of 8:51.5, as he won by 200 yards.

Nebraska was paced by NCAA triple jump champion Lennox Burgher, who won at 48-8, his best effort of the spring; a 440 relay team which went 41.9 and a :52.8 by John Simmons in the 440 intermediate hurdles.

440 relay—1, Nebraska (Case, Marcey, Forbes, Orduna) :41.9. Northern Arizona and Arizona State both disqualified, passed baton out of zone.

Celtics Win, 112-97, Take Two-Game Lead

Boston (AP) — The Boston Celtics, led by player-coach Bill Russell, threw up a tight early defense and shackled ice-cold New York in the first half en route to a 112-97 victory over the Knicks and a 2-0 lead in their Eastern Division final series in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Boston's defending NBA champions charged to a 26-14 first period lead and built the advantage to 55-33 at halftime in sweeping to a convincing triumph.

The third game in the best-of-7 series will be played in New York Thursday night.

Russell, who has led the Celtics to 10 championships in 12 years, was the dominating factor as the virtually intimidated the New York sharpshooters.

The Knicks managed just three field goals in 23 attempts in the opening period and had a shooting mark of just 19.2 percent as they hit on only nine of 47 shots in the opening half.

Russell had 11 of his 14 points and 21 of his 29 rebounds in the first two periods. With the Celtics in front 95-69 and nearly 8½ minutes remaining Russell went to the bench for a well deserved rest as a capacity crowd of 14,933 gave him a standing ovation.

Veteran Bailey Howell topped the Celtics with 27 points. John Havlicek had 15, Sam Jones and Tom Sanders 13 each with Emmette Bryant adding 11.

Willis Reed, New York's big center led the Knicks' scoring with 28 points.

New York was hurt badly as Dave DeBusschere ran into foul trouble and sat out much of the game. DeBusschere failed to score.

Eisenhower Broke 80 Four Times At Augusta

Augusta, Ga. —Former President Eisenhower was revealed Wednesday as a golfer with a "congenital slice" and as a poor putter, but who broke 80 four times on the Augusta National Golf Club course, his favorite golfing grounds.

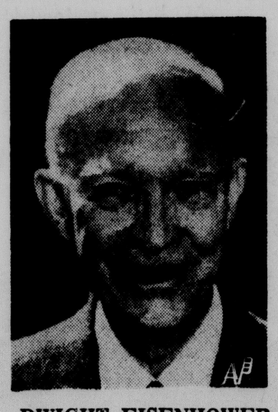

Clifford Roberts, chairman of the Masters Tournament that begins at the National Course today (Thursday), disclosed hitherto unpublished information about the general's game.

"If Foster Dulles (Secretary of State) called the President before he started out to play — or during a round — Ike's score might be 98. He was ready to start swinging the minute he set foot on the club course, always anxious to hit the next shot, and he never quieted down on the course," Roberts told a conference of sports writers in Augusta Wednesday.

General Eisenhower became a member here in 1948," explained Roberts, who was Eisenhower's New York investment adviser as well as his constant golfing companion.

"In the 21 years he was a member, he made 45 trips to this club, 29 of them during his Presidency."

"Very few," said Roberts, known as the "Master of the Masters" due to his proficiency in organizing and supervising the tourney that began in 1934 as a creation of Bob Jones, "contributed as much as General Eisenhower toward the enhancement of the popularity of the game of golf."

DWIGHT EISENHOWER

"But he was worse than Arnold Palmer in changing putters and equipment. In my opinion," said Roberts, "General Eisenhower couldn't judge the roll of a green. He'd forget to wait for his caddie to give him counsel. Often it turned out that he judged a putt to be downhill when it was a bit uphill."

Roberts, who accompanied the Eisenhower family to the former President's resting place last week in Abilene, Kan., said he never knew anyone as enthusiastic about golf. While he was alive, no information was given about his scores, but Roberts said he was not reluctant to make the facts known now.

–APRIL 29 MEETING DECISIVE–

Three-Division Plan Liked In Grid Merger

Oakland (AP) — Oakland Raider boss Al Davis disclosed Wednesday the shape of the plan offered by the American Football League for its merger with the National Football League and indicated he thought it would be agreed to next month.

Davis refused comment on just what form the leagues will take. But it was learned that the plan envisions the shift of three NFL clubs to the AFL — which ones are anybody's guess — and the formation of three divisions in each league, two with four teams and one with five.

Davis, who was commissioner of the AFL at the time the merger was agreed upon in 1966, is one of four team owners who worked on the plan that the NFL is now considering. Its fate will be learned at a meeting in New York on April 29.

Essentially, the plan, as outlined by Davis in an interview, has five points:

1. Retention of the present identity of the two leagues.

2. A continuation of traditional rivalries.

3. Small divisions with home-and-home games between divisional opponents to develop a true champion.

4. A solid television package.

5. Pre-season and regular season play between inter-league opponents to build up natural geographical rivalries and between intra-league foes to capitalize on existing ones.

AL DAVIS

The plan was worked out when the two leagues met at Palm Springs, Calif., last month, but were unable to agree on a merger program for 1970. Working on the plan were four AFL owners, Paul Brown of Cincinnati, Eugene Kelin of San Diego, Lamar Hunt of Kansas City and Davis.

Originally, an inter-league committee of three representatives from each league had proposed that the leagues remain as they are with some inter-league play.

The AFL turned that down and proposed a total realignment of the leagues on a mainly geographical basis.

The NFL rejected that, however, emphasizing the need for traditional rivalries, home-and-home play and small divisions. The older league then reoffered the original plan on a two-year basis and the AFL rejected it again.

At that point, the plan now under consideration was presented. Commissioner Pete Rozelle asked that the meeting be adjourned so the NFL could study it.

Rozelle has been quoted as saying the plan now being studied, or something like it, is the most feasible since it contains all the things most of the teams want. Other NFL owners have said pretty much the same thing and Davis thinks it or one like it will be adopted.

There are still many details to work out. Will the NFL teams shifting to the AFL receive some sort of indemnification, for instance? And there are tax implications, plans for trades and waivers and the all-important fact of television that must be taken into consideration.

Lincoln High Thinclads Top Omaha Teams

Omaha—Lincoln High won 12 of 17 events to dominate a prep triangular track meet at Norris Junior High's field Wednesday. The Links scored 108 points, followed by Creighton Prep with 48 and Omaha South, 22.

Top marks for the Links were a 4:35.5 mile by Dennis O'Meara, just three seconds off Bob Morris' 1932 school record, and a 164-foot heave in the discus by Ron Swanson, five feet short of his own school mark. Fieldman Gary King and Russell Ellis and sprinter Mike Osberg all added two victories apiece for the Links.

Match Play Golf Slated June 20-22

Omaha — Invitations have gone out to the 16 qualifiers for the second annual Nebraska Match Play Golf Tournament to be held at the Omaha Happy Hollow Country Club June 20-22.

Qualifiers are the top 16 finishers in last summer's Nebraska Men's State Amateur Championship at the Hillcrest Country Club in Lincoln, won by Lincoln's Charlie Borner.

The invitees include 10 from Lincoln, including defending match play champion Tim Bateman, who defeated Norfolk's Don Bridge in the finals last summer at the Norfolk Country Club.

The qualifiers are Borner, Bateman, Matt Taber, Scott Brunzell, R. B. Lau, Ed Smith, Larry Romjue, Dick Spangler Jr., Gene Chadwell and Ed Dosek, all of Lincoln; Jim Shade and Bridge, both of Norfolk; Frank Rose of Fairbury, Del Ryder of Grand Island, and Dean Wilson Jr., Gen. K. K. Compton and Rick Schultz, all of Omaha.

The tournament is sponsored by the Nebraska Amateur Golf Association.

Wesleyan Trackmen Triumph

Fremont — Nebraska Wesleyan won nine of 14 events and smashed Midland College, 84½-46½, Wednesday in a collegiate track dual. It was Wesleyan's second straight dual victory.

Because of windy conditions, the pole vault and TWU relays were not held.

Mike Stone in the long and triple jumps for Wesleyan and Midland sprinter Tom Maloney, a freshman from Lincoln Pius X, were the only double winners.

In The Field

Long jump—1. Mike Stone, NWU, 21-1; 2. John Gumb, Mid; 3. Howard Wigert, NWU.

Triple jump—1. Stone, NWU, 41-9; 2. Dan McCauley, NWU; 3. Jerry Dickmeyer, Mid.

Discus—1. Collins, Mid, 130-6½; 2. Kent Swanson, NWU; 3. (tie) Harvey Meyers, NWU, and Knudson, Mid.

Shot put—1. Swanson, NWU, 43-3½; 2. Meyer, NWU, 41-11½; 3. Christman, Mid, 41-1¼.

Javelin—1. Lanny Hall, NWU, 192-0; 2. Meyer, NWU, 190-9; 3. Bruce Oberhelman, NWU, 169-0.

High jump—1. Dan McCauley, NWU, 5-11½; 2. Bob Lubeck, Mid; 3. Bob Beecham, NWU.

On The Track

440-yard relay—1. Wesleyan (Wigert, Jim Watt, Bob Rutledge, Dale Clark). T—:44.6.

Mile—1. Joe Onstatt, Mid; 2. Jerry Trook, NWU; 3. Jerry Leign, Mid. T—4:42.1.

Vet Pitchers Lead Omaha

. . . ROYALS COULD SURPRISE IN AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

Daytona Beach, Fla. — If you're one of those people inclined to write off the Omaha Royals in the 1969 American Association race just because they're stocked by a major-league expansion club, better get a new script because the Royals just might be the surprise team of the league.

You wouldn't expect manager Jack McKeon to start out singing the blues. But neither would he have to say: "I'm optimistic on what I've seen so far. I like the club."

As a matter of fact, McKeon is more concerned right now about a factor other than his own club. It's the situation with the parent Kansas City Royals. "Because they are an expansion club with a lot of question marks, they may have to do a lot of juggling and that, of course, would affect us directly at Omaha."

Omaha's strength figures to be centered in its pitching. More than half of the staff has had significant major league experience — fellows like Galen Cisco, Dick Calmus, Bill Faul, Orlando Pena, Larry Sherry, Tracy Stallard, and Chris Zachary.

There's a sprinkling of youth to go with the ex-big leaguers. Paul Epperson (1-7 at Charlotte and 5-4 at Wilson), Jerry Dyscio (10-10 at Dubuque) and Jerry Cram (16-10 at Wilson) are a trio of capable youngsters plucked from the Minnesota organization. Alan Fitzmorris was 11-11 at Lynchburg. Paul Splittorf is out of the rookie league. Steve Wright logged 7-3 with Hi Point-Thomasville.

Of the veterans, Calmus was 3-8 at Tacoma and 0-3 at San Antonio, Faul 1-5, Pena 7-6, Sherry 6-6 and Zachary 0-0 in the Pacific Coast League. Stallard, 31, is back in harness after laying out last year.

Tommy Smith (.221 in the PCL) and Dennis Paepke (.289 at El Paso) comprise the catching staff at this writing. The Royals hope to get Fran Healy, a strapping youngster who hit .238 for Waterbury.

At the moment there are only two bona fide outfielders on the roster — Fred Rico (.265 at Elmira) and Dave Nicholson, the big swisher who belted 34 homers and batted .226 last year for Richmond in the International League. The Royals expect to get George Spriggs (.274 at Columbus).

McKeon is overstocked with infielders and says some of these are combination infielder-outfielder type who will help on the picket line.

One of them is Mack Kuykendall, released by the Chicago Cubs and signed as a free agent. He will help in the outfield and at first base with Larry (Bo) Osborne, veteran ex-big leaguer who was a fine performer and huge fan favorite for four seasons at Denver before trying his hand as a manager last year in the lower minors, and a slugging youngster, Nick Van Lue, who hit 23 homers at Spartanburg.

The Royals are converting Paul Schaal (.210 with the California Angels) to shortstop and the outcome of this experiment is the key to the Royals' infield defense. Billy Harris, who saw sparse action at Portland and Cleveland last year, can fly on the bases and will play second base.

Luis Alcaraz (.151 at Los Angeles and .277 at Spokane) is slated for third base. Dick Severson (.292 at Appleton) may crowd his way into the picture and veteran Mike Sinnerud (.278 at Oklahoma City) will fit in somewhere, probably as utility.

McKeon concludes with this observation: "We may be a little short on power but our pitching will be strong and I think we'll hold our own."

One veteran major league farm director, running down the Omaha roster, commented: "I'll say one thing — I think they've done a fine job putting this ball club together starting from scratch."

Oklahoma Hitters Taking Too Much

. . . SOONERS VISIT NEBRASKA

Norman, Okla. — Oklahoma must become more aggressive at the plate, according to coach Enos Semore.

"We're taking too many called strikes," explains the OU head man. "We can't keep doing that and win."

Oklahoma wants to keep winning in a three-game series at Nebraska Friday and Saturday. Semore's gang opened Big Eight play by taking two of three from Kansas last weekend, hiking their season's record to 8-7.

Semore enjoyed Oklahoma's pitching against KU, however. Dick Brown, Tulsa junior, blanked the Jayhawks 5-0 in the second game Friday while junior Dennis Ranzau foiled them 3-1 Saturday.

Brown has surrendered one earned run in 23 innings, a big reason his record is 3-0 and the reason he might start against the Cornhuskers Friday. Ranzau (2-1) is expected to work the second game and either freshman David Weaver (3-1), junior Ronnie Hall or sophomore Stan Richards (0-1) will be fingered for Saturday's nine-inning contest.

"We're not as sharp as we were on our western trip," Semore worried aloud. "Our defense is not as good. I'm disappointed because I know we can play better."

Shortstop Bob Tate and third baseman Chris Rickey soothed Enos' mood with their batting feats against KU. Rickey, especially. The Oklahoma City Northeast soph lashed three hits, including a home run and double.

"Swenton (right fielder Mike) had a couple of key hits that helped," said the OU coach correctly. Swenton plated Rickey for the winning run in Saturday's finale.

OU's batting order at Nebraska: Scott Harrington (2b), Tate (ss), Swenton (rf), Terry Schreiner or Harold Cowherd (1b), Ron Rowell (lf), Rickey (3b), Doug Folger (cf), and John Johnson or Pat Parkhurst (c).

Crime Unit Gives Priority To Manpower Improvement

Improvement of the manpower situation of the Lincoln Police and Lancaster County Sheriff's Departments will be the top priority of the Region II Crime Commission in using federal funds provided by the State Crime Commission.

The priority was part of a program for law enforcement improvement adopted by the local commission Wednesday.

The manpower situation includes the hiring and retaining of competent personnel through salaries and fringe benefits, training and ethnic mix.

Subcommittee

The local crime commission also approved creation of a subcommittee to seek applicants for someone to serve as executive secretary to coordinate the commission's program in using the federal funds.

Members suggested that a young attorney or semiretired person interested in law enforcement be considered a prime candidate.

Also to be dealt with in the commission's program for improving law enforcement are achieving better community relations and modernizing communications equipment.

Cecil Parker, vice chairman of the commission, said the part-time executive secretary could also coordinate efforts and ideas on law enforcement.

From Funds

Walt Weaver, head of the State Crime Commission, told the commissioners that money to pay for the executive secretary could come out of the $10,371 federal planning grant funds and out of the expected federal action money.

Parker indicated that a 25% turnover in the Lincoln Police Department is one reason for giving high priority to improving the manpower situation.

Weaver said action money spent must be matched by local funds and needs approval of the city or county governing body involved.

Lumber Industry Tops Profit List

Washington (UPI) — The government reported Wednesday that the lumber industry recorded the highest profit of any U.S. industry in 1968, followed by automobile manufacturers.

$11,681 Budget OKd By United Missionary

A budget of $11,681, with $1,435 allotted for missions, was approved by the congregation of the United Missionary Church, 3333 No. 66th, at its annual meeting Wednesday night.

Church officers elected at the meeting were Harold Slaight, Sunday school superintendent; Mrs. Rita Banks, church clerk; Wayne Stahly, treasurer; Everett Wieskamp and Clarence Burgeson, delegates to the May district conference in Iowa; Orville Banks, trustee, and Mrs. Evelyn Butterfield, class leader.

Wesleyan's Olin Hall Features Planetarium

A carpeted planetarium with tilting seats for more comfortable viewing during the sky shows is one of the highlights of Nebraska Wesleyan University's new multimillion dollar Olin Hall of Science.

The planetarium is only the sixth one in the state, astronomy instructor Carroll Moore told newsmen during a preview tour of the 84,484-square-foot building Wednesday.

The public is invited to an open house of the science facility 2-5 p.m., Sunday.

In addition to tours of the building, demonstrations with some of the new instrumentation and equipment are planned.

A $2.3 million grant from the Olin Foundation of New York was used to build and equip the three-story structure housing the NWU biology, chemistry and physics departments.

Other equipment and curriculum assistance is being provided with a $275,000 National Science Foundation grant, a $85,000 Research Corporation grant and a $30,000 Union Pacific Railroad grant.

The color-coded floor levels include special research areas and shop rooms in the basement, physics on the first floor, biology on the second and chemistry on the third.

Two carpeted lecture halls and the planetarium are in a separate wing which is connected by an underground passage with the greenhouse.

The underground nuclear accelerator room was built as an extension to the basement.

This is a summer cottage. Your kid's education. An ocean voyage. Retirement.

Pretty practical way to look at something as patriotic as U. S. Savings Bonds, right? Well, there's nothing un-American about being practical. Which is exactly what you are when you put your savings into U. S. Savings Bonds.

For one thing, Bonds pay back a little over $4.00 for every $3.00 you invest. And now they do it in just seven years.

Also, the money you put into U. S. Savings Bonds is obviously safe. In fact, even if your Savings Bonds are lost, stolen, or burned, we'll replace them.

And, in case you have to save time as well as money, Savings Bonds are surprisingly easy to buy. You can pick them up at your bank. Or have someone else do the paperwork for you by joining the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

One more thing. Bonds now have a new high interest rate of 4¼% when held to maturity. And buying them gives you the privilege of also buying the even higher interest 5% Freedom Shares in combination.

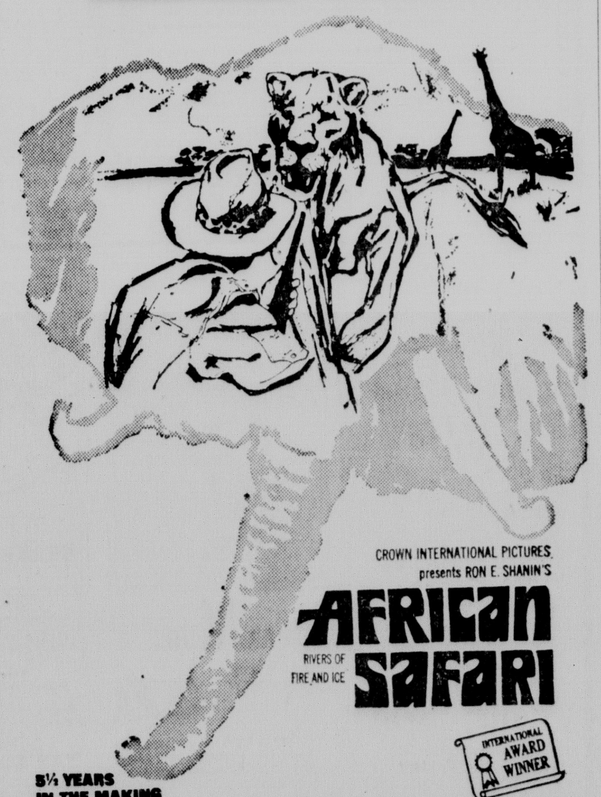

Put your savings in Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares. You could eventually end up with the summer cottage and the college education and the ocean voyage and retirement. And whatever else you want to save for.

New Peace Hopes Boost Stock Trade

New York (AP) — New Vietnam peace hopes helped pull both the big institutions and small investors off the sidelines Wednesday, and the stock market punched out a second straight gain.

The institutional activity helped boost trading volume to 12.53 million shares, a sharp advance over Tuesday's 9.36 million shares. The turnover was the best since Feb. 24, when 12.73 million shares were traded.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose from the start, and at the close it had picked up 6.80 points to finish at 929.97. The Dow picked up 4.39 points Tuesday to make its first advance after four straight losing sessions.

Gains also held the advantage from the start. Of 1,526 issues traded, 842 advanced and 479 declined. New highs for the year totaled 41 and new lows 103.

The market drew much of its strength, brokers said, from new peace hopes.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 1.9 at 334.7, with industrials up 4.1, rails up .3, and utilities up .5.

The step-up in institutional buying, brokers said, could be seen in the 76 blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the New York exchange, compared with 53 Tuesday.

Several of the 20 most-active stocks on the New York exchange — 15 of which advanced while 4 declined, and 1 was unchanged — were there largely because of big-block trading.

Occidental Petroleum, most-active, was off 3/8 at 41 1/2. A 196,900 share block of Occidental traded during the day at 41, off 1 1/8.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange generally were higher.

Volume was 5.34 million shares, compared with 4.93 million Tuesday.

Steers Sell Steady To Strong

Omaha (AP) — The strong slowed a bit on the fed cattle market at Omaha Wednesday. But a moderate midweek supply here and around the circuit prevented a cost-conscious buying side from applying the price-pruning sheers.

Values on steers and heifers shaped up steady to strong, with some opening transactions definitely on the firm side. Well-finished cattle, as usual, were in the vanguard of the market strength, with lighter and inbetween quality offerings taking the benefit of demand filtering down from the top level.

Scarcity propped the cow market to a strong to 50 cent advance amid warnings that beef imports, after a two-month lull, would pull even with a year ago during the second quarter. Bulls traded on a weaker basis, few sales feeder cattle unchanged.

Supplies at Omaha measured just under 6,000, up from 4,200 a week ago and about on a par with a year ago.

Backgrounding the slower, more cautious stance of buyers was a rather slow-developing dressed beef market. Chicago reported early sales steady with Tuesday. Prices at Omaha late Tuesday were as much as a dollar higher in active trading.

Steer peak moved back up to the year's high of 32.50 for a load choice to prime 1,254 lb. weights.

Heifers set a new 10-year peak at 30.25 for a load choice to prime 755 lbs.

Butcher hogs ruled steady to mostly 25 cent higher, some sales up 50 cents in instances. Sows were steady to 25 cents higher. Receipts turned light, sparking the advance.

A part deck of selected 219-222 lb. butchers topped at 21.00. Bulk 200-240 lbs. 20.25-20.75. Sows bunched under an extreme top of 19.00.

There were not enough slaughter lambs on offer to test prices.

Liquidation Wave Erases Advance In Wheat Futures

Chicago (AP) —A wave of liquidation near the close erased a 1 cent advance in wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday.

As a result, wheat futures closed with losses and tended to influence liquidation in other major commodities on the exchange. Trade was fairly active, although commercial participation was notably light.

A strong factor in the selling of wheat futures was a trade feeling that a government report, to be issued Thursday after the close of business, on the estimated size of the 1969 winter wheat crop, would be bearish on futures. That is, the report probably will say that as much, or even more, wheat will be produced this year as in the last record year, 1968.

At the close, wheat was ¼ to ½ cent a bushel lower, May 1.27; corn was ⅛ lower to ¾ higher, May 1.17½; oats were ¼ lower to higher, May 66¼ cents; rye was ¼ to ⅝ higher, May 1.18¼; and soybeans were unchanged to ½ higher, May 2.64¼.

New Cardinals To Be Created In April 28 Rite

Vatican City (AP) — The secret consistory at which Pope Paul VI will create 33 cardinals, four from the United States, will be held April 28 in the consistorial hall, the Vatican announced Wednesday.

The Pope announced the consistory March 28. It is the fourth of his reign and will increase the College of Cardinals to a record 134.

Man Ousted From Work After Check

Everett, Wash. (AP) — George Bartch, port manager for five years, set up through a private firm an efficiency survey of the port's operation.

Tuesday night Bartch was fired by the Port Commission. It said the firm's oral report showed he wasn't the right man for the job.

British Superjet Given First Test

Bristol, England (AP)—Britain's Concorde supersonic airliner, built to fly from London to New York in 3½ hours, took to the skies Wednesday for a near perfect 22-minute maiden flight.

Quivering like a nervous greyhound under the thrust of her four jet engines, the 1,400-mile-an-hour Concorde 002 roared off the runway five weeks after the first flight of its French-built twin.

Test pilot Brian Trubshaw kept the plane's movable needle nose dropping toward the ground and its 10 wheels locked down to hold the speed at 300 miles an hour.

Tourists Buy Clothes

London (AP) — British clothes are a major spending item for most visiting Americans, Canadians, Scandinavians and Frenchmen, a recent survey reported. But only about half of German tourists are clothing buyers, the survey shows; the rest invest heavily in food and drink.

Hanoi Has Problems At Home

New York Times Service

By HEDRICK SMITH

Washington — Western diplomats report that the end of American bombing of North Vietnam has left the Hanoi regime beset by intensified problems of public apathy, flagging Communist discipline, corruption and poor morale among its followers at home.

These specialists assert that a close reading of North Vietnamese official publications and reports from foreign observers in Hanoi indicate that the leadership has been having difficulty in coping with the normal human tendency to let down once the bombing stopped and to question the need for further material sacrifices for the war effort.

Diplomatic sources cite reports of food hoardings by farmers, a flourishing black market in cities like Hanoi, and other forms of profiteering by the North Vietnamese.

Draft-dodging among youth, always reportedly a problem, has evidently gotten worse in recent months, American officials report, and has become the target of official North Vietnamese campaigns to rekindle a feeling of patriotic sacrifice among young people.

So prevalent have such problems become in recent months that one foreign resident of Hanoi was reported to have said the end of the bombing last Nov. 1 achieved results that the bombing campaign never did achieve.

Although these problems have evidently forced the Hanoi regime to pay more attention to domestic problems than previously, American and other Western diplomatic observers do not believe the regime is under any unbearable pressures to end the war or change the direction of policy. The regime is said to be fully in control of the situation.

Sweeping Changes In Public TV Disclosed

New York (AP) — Sweeping changes in the scope and structure of public television were announced by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, the National Educational Television Network and the Ford Foundation.

The major changes envision:

—Creation of a Public Broadcasting System (PBS) within the next 90 days to manage the network service to more than 140 public television stations. The PBS an entity of the corporation, will have broad authority to allocate network time to producers.

—Inauguration of a two-hour Sunday night program service of news, public affairs, music and dramatic features. Premiering in October, it will replace the Ford-financed Public Broadcast Laboratory, which leaves the air in May.

—A "Summer Showcase 1969" of Sunday evening programs focusing on America's outstanding summer music festivals, from jazz to the classics. The series will run from June 1 to Sept. 28.

John W. Macy Jr., president of the corporation, said creation of the PBS would bring about "the most effective distribution of programming and insure that our growing network truly serves the stations and the total audience."

At present, public television stations receive two hours of week night network service under a grant to NET from the corporation.

The Ford Foundation will continue to be a major contributor to public broadcasting under the new arrangement.

Fred W. Friendly, Ford Foundation adviser on television, said: "At the same time we have come to a turning in that public television no longer depends on a maximum effort by the foundation and that a major new source of leadership — the Corporation for Public Broadcasting — is now stepping to center stage."

CHERRY COUNTY RANCH
1253 ACRES AT $70
2 MILES OF NIOBRARA RIVER FRONTAGE!
Part new 3 bedroom 2 BATH home. 2 barns. 2 wells. BRAZIL bound owner was carrying 125 cows. 250 acres of alfalfa. (Should yield 1½ tons per acre 1st cutting with present moisture.) Resident or non-resident owner can LAND HIS PLANE on this field and "hunt his heart out." DEER and ANTELOPE across river from GAME RESERVE which is also hunted). Lots of QUAIL, DUCKS and some GROUSE and WILD TURKEY TRACKS are still visible in snow banks under trees! PHEASANTS on table land nearby. BEAUTIFUL remote SNAKE RIVER FALLS, MERRITT DAM and NATIONAL FOREST across river. Here is the wonderful NEBRASKA SANDHILLS in a COUNTRY GENTLEMEN sized ranch. Not far from where the famous Governor SAM McKELVIE and others who could have their pick, chose to locate their quiet rural retreats — with an income! It is "selling for a song" $70 per acre! THE RYATTS

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Oct. 25 is called Thanksgiving Day on the U.S. Virgin Islands, celebrating the end of the hurricane season.

☆ ☆ ☆

A snowmobile's engine drives a cleated belt, similar to a tractor's, beneath the vehicle. Most can go 50 miles an hour; hot-rod models may double that speed. They cost from $900 to $1,400.

☆ ☆ ☆

Vermont has had three different State Houses in its history.

A total of 158 students from 42 foreign countries were enrolled at Texas Tech for the 1968-69 school year.

Australia's Ayers Rock covers 1,200 acres and juts 1,143 feet out of a flat plain in the continent's central dessert. A few trees on the summit are the only vegetation.

☆ ☆ ☆

If the earth were perfectly smooth and round, the oceans would cover it to a depth of 12,000 feet.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another In this example, A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A X Y D L B A A X R
L O N G F E L L O W

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
